H S C Sagetion:

The Nurses Are Innocent Gavin Hamilton, 2011-11-05 Gavin Hamilton's research shows that a toxin found in natural rubber might well have been the culprit in the 43 babies' deaths at Toronto's Hospital for Sick Children in 1980-81. In 1980-81, 43 babies died at Toronto's Hospital for Sick Children from a supposed digoxin overdose. Serial murder was suspected, leading to the arrest of nurse Susan Nelles. In order to clear Nelles's name, an investigation was launched to find an alternate explanation. No one on the Grange Royal Commission of Inquiry had expertise in diagnosis. The post mortem diagnosis of digoxin poisoning was based on a single biochemical test without knowledge of the normal values. Gavin Hamilton's extensive research shows that a toxin found in natural rubber, a digoxin-like substance, might well have been the culprit in the babies' deaths. He clearly demonstrates that explanations other than serial murder account for the cluster of infant deaths at HSC. What can be learned from this black stain on Canada's judicial system? One lesson certainly stands out: we can't ever again allow a group of unqualified amateur diagnosticians to make life and death decisions about such important matters as potential serial murders.

Cytokines in Liver Injury and Repair A.M. Gressner, P.C. Heinrich, S. Matern, 2002-06-30 This book, the proceedings of Falk Symposium No 125 on Cytokines in Liver Injury and Repair, Progress in Gastroenterology and Hepatology Part II, held in Hannover, Germany on September 30-October 1, 2001, provides an update of our current knowledge on the role of cytokines in various human and experimental liver diseases and on their present and prospective use in therapeutic trials. The book contains chapters by most well-known experts in the field who have contributed significantly to our present knowledge on cytokines in liver injury and repair.

After the Error Susan B. McIver, Robin Wyndham, 2013-05-09 In a series of true stories from across Canada, this collection seeks to point out the considerable human toll that medical errors cause. Victims of medical errors and their families, who speak out, often do so at considerable emotional, psychological, and financial expense. But their willingness to share their harrowing stories has helped to lay the foundation for numerous patient safety programs and continues to identify problems, provide solutions, and raise awareness. These emotional and moving stories underline serious issues with medical errors while empowering patients.

Anaerobiosis and Stemness Zoran Ivanovic, Marija Vlaski-Lafarge, 2015-11-28 Anaerobiosis and Stemness: An evolutionary paradigm provides a context for understanding the many complexities and evolutionary features of stem cells and the clinical implications of anaerobiosis in stem cells. Combining theoretical and experimental knowledge, the authors provide a broad understanding of how the absence or low concentration of oxygen can play an influential role in the maintenance and self-renewal of stem cells and stem cell differentiation. This understanding has clinical implications for the fields of regenerative medicine, cancer biology, and transplantation, as well as cell engineering and cell therapy. Anaerobiosis and Stemness is an important resource for stem cell and developmental biologists alike, as well as oncologists cancer biologists and researchers using stem cells for regeneration Highlights the molecular and evolutionary features of stem cells which make them so important to all biological research Explores methods of isolation characterization activation and maintenance of stem cells Includes models for clinical application in regenerative medicine cancer therapy and transplantation

Stem Cell Therapy for Autoimmune Disease Richard K. Burt, 2019-11-11 Stem cell transplantation may be complicated by treatment related mortality and like the immune system that it regenerates has equal potential to either create and preserve or destroy The dual nature that defines stem cells is differentiation that ultimately leads to death and self renewal which leads to immortality What types of stem cells are there How are they collected What are their attributes and characteristics This textbook devotes many chapters to familiarize the reader with the basic science clinical aspects and new questions being raised in the field of stem cell biology Blood stem cells for tolerance and tissue regeneration are a rapidly developing research and clinical field that is being applied to autoimmune diseases In clinical trials autologous hematopoietic blood stem cells are being used to reduce the cytopenic interval following intense immune suppressive transplant regimens While as yet not delineated some possible mechanisms and pathways leading to tolerance after hematopoietic stem cell transplantation are suggested in these chapters Tissue regeneration from blood stem cells is also suggested by animal experiments on stem cell plasticity or metamorphosis i e change in fate as described within this textbook Ongoing early clinical trials on tissue regeneration from blood stem cells are described in the chapter on stem cell therapy for cardiac and peripheral vascular disease Whether autologous hematopoietic stem cells through the process of mobilization and reinfusion may be manipulated to contribute to tissue repair in autoimmune diseases is a future area for translational research

Cytokines and Cell Homeostasis in the

Gastrointestinal Tract T. Andus, 2000-11-30 The gastrointestinal tract has a number of unique features Its extensive surface is formed by a single layer of rapidly renewing cells the intestinal epithelial cells These cells are in contact with a number of other cell populations including the largest part of the immune system and with an excessive luminal antigen load including vast numbers of bacteria Furthermore two more organs namely liver and pancreas are part of the system The rapid renewal of the epithelial layer the interactions of different cell types and the balance between cell proliferation and death have been fascinating subjects of studies in recent years Much has been learned and cytokines have emerged as important mediators for all these interactions and homeostatic systems This book the proceedings of the Falk Symposium 113 on Cytokines and Cell Homeostasis in the Gastrointestinal Tract held in Regensburg Germany 16 18 September 1999 provides a forum for basic scientists and interested clinicians to exchange ideas to discuss concepts and to plan further studies

Ageless Andrew Steele, 2021-03-23 A fascinating look at how scientists are working to help doctors treat the aging process itself helping us all to lead longer healthier lives Sanjay Gupta MD Aging not cancer not heart disease is the underlying cause of most human death and suffering The same cascade of biological changes that renders us wrinkled and gray also opens the door to dementia and disease We work furiously to conquer each individual disease but we never think to ask Is aging itself necessary Nature tells us it is not there are tortoises and salamanders who are spry into old age and whose risk of dying is the same no matter how old they are a phenomenon known as biological immortality In Ageless Andrew Steele charts the astounding progress science has made in recent years to secure the same for humans to help us become old without getting frail to live longer without ill health or disease

When politics meets bureaucracy Christian Lo, 2021-01-05

This book is based on a study of the strategies and tactics applied by municipal bureaucrats and local politicians in the pursuit of political goals in two small Norwegian municipalities. The enactment of a bureaucracy within these small and close knit communities offer an insight into how formal and informal relations intersect during the production of public policy. By analysing the relation between normative and pragmatic rules regulating political action, Christian Lo demonstrates how the efforts to resolve these tensions and dilemmas involve a balancing of alternative sources of political legitimacy. Through ethnographic accounts of policy making in action, When politics meets bureaucracy offers novel perspectives to the interdisciplinary debate about local governance. Most significantly, these accounts demonstrate how processes of hierarchical government are inextricably intertwined with broader processes of governance during policy processes, thereby dissolving the theoretical and normative separation between the two concepts characterising large parts of the literature. By centring its focus on the interconnections between government and governance, Lo explores the cultural and historical conditions informing this intertwinement, which the author argues enable horizontal alignments that can modify the hierarchical logic of bureaucratic organisations. Combining approaches and perspectives from political science, sociology and anthropology, this book is essential reading for those interested in the inner workings of bureaucratic organisations and how such organisations interact with their societal surroundings.

The Chapman Legal Family Peter Spiller, 1992. The Chapman family was the first of New Zealand's legal dynasties. Henry Samuel Chapman was the first puisne judge of the Supreme Court; his son Frederick Revans Chapman was the first New Zealand born Supreme Court judge; and another son, Martin, founded one of the country's leading legal firms, which still bears his name. This book provides a record of the lives and careers of three significant figures in nineteenth and early twentieth century colonial history. It casts light on important aspects of society and law at that time, notably the characteristics and values of the educated aspirant classes and the development of essentially English institutions and laws in the colonial environment. Transplantation Kerry Atkinson, 2004. Drs. Richard Champlin, Jerome Ritz, Willem Fibbe, Per Ljungman and Malcom K. Brenner join Kerry Atkinson as editors of this definitive reference on the clinical practice and underlying science of hematopoietic stem cell transplantation. This third edition text is significantly revised and updated with 124 chapters balancing scientific explanations with practical information on patient care for all aspects of autologous syngeneic and allogeneic transplantation. This edition includes 18 new chapters on significant topics such as plasticity of stem cells, embryonic stem cells and nonmyeloablative conditioning regimens. Thoroughly referenced through 2003, the chapters are divided into 15 sections including biological background and practical procedures, clinical results, transplant related and organ specific complications, laboratory aspects and developing areas, with a final breaking news chapter from this rapidly evolving field. Over 170 internationally recognized experts contributed to this authoritative and practical text that is an essential resource for hematologists, oncologists and transplant specialists. Liver: A Complete Book on Hepato-Pancreato-Biliary Diseases

- E-Book Mamun Al-Mahtab, 2009-12-15. The spectrum and etiology of liver diseases vary widely between East and West and hence the focus and experience of hepatologists also remain varied at two corners of the globe. Hepatology being perhaps one of the most flourishing and evolving discipline of medical sciences, a book with recent information written by experts from all over the world was much needed. The present book fulfills this need. The book will serve as a useful reference manual to consultants, postgraduate students and residents of Hepatology, Gastroenterology, Internal Medicine, Pathology, Virology and Preventive Medicine as well as undergraduate clinical medical students. Liver is a comprehensive book that discusses all aspects of diseases ranging from epidemiology to prognosis. This book is unique in its conception and presentation as not only it provides new information but also offers a balanced and rational approach to diseases of liver, pancreas and biliary system. One of the characteristic features of the book is inclusion of diseases of pancreas and separate chapters on important topics like cytokines and chemokines and apoptosis in liver diseases as a sound background in these is essential for becoming a good specialist. It contains a chapter on evidence based clinical practice in hepatology which is the basis of modern clinical practice. It also includes a chapter on preventive aspects of hepato biliary diseases keeping in mind that prevention of diseases is always preferred to cure. One of the unique features of this book is it has contributors from all over the world.
