Johnson's Resistance and Empowerment in Black Women's Hair Styling develops the argument that one way Black women define themselves and each other is by the way they style groom their hair via endorsement by the media through advertisement idealized identification of Black female celebrities and encouragement by professional celebrity hair stylists who serve as change agents As a result hair becomes a physical manifestation of their self identity revealing a private and personal mindset Her research answers the following questions What is the relationship between Black females choice of hairstyles grooming and transmitted messages of aesthetics by the dominant culture through culturally specific magazines What role do the natural hair blogs vlogs play as a change agent in encouraging or discouraging consumers grooming their hair in its natural state What impact does a globalized consumer market of Black hair care products have on Hispanic Latinas and Bi Racial women Are Black female Generation Y members more likely to receive backlash for failure to conform their hair to dominant standards in their hair adornment in the workplace Johnson thus demonstrates that the major concern from messages sent to Black women about their hair is its impact on Black identity Thus the goal of Black women should be to break with hegemonic modes of seeing thinking and being for full liberation This critical and deep consciousness will debunk the messages told to Black women that their kinky frizzy thick hair is undesirable bad unmanageable and shackling

Looking Like a Language, Sounding Like a Race Jonathan Rosa, 2019 Looking like a Language Sounding like a Race examines the emergence of linguistic and ethnoracial categories in the context of Latinidad The book draws from more than twenty four months of ethnographic and sociolinguistic fieldwork in a Chicago public school whose student body is more than 90% Mexican and Puerto Rican to analyze the racialization of language and its relationship to issues of power and national identity It focuses specifically on youth socialization to U S Latinidad as a contemporary site of political anxiety raciolinguistic transformation and urban inequity Jonathan Rosa's account studies the fashioning of Latinidad in Chicago's highly segregated Near Northwest Side he links public discourse concerning the rising prominence of U S Latinidad to the institutional management and experience of raciolinguistic identities there. Anxieties surrounding Latinx identities push administrators to transform at-risk Mexican and Puerto Rican students into young Latino professionals. This institutional effort, which requires students to learn to be and importantly sound like themselves in highly studied ways, reveals administrators' attempts to navigate a precarious urban terrain in a city grappling with some of the nation's highest youth homicide, dropout, and teen pregnancy rates. Rosa explores the ingenuity of his research participants' responses to these forms of marginalization through the contestation of political, ethnoracial, and linguistic borders.
