The Pantheon , Competition in the Ancient World Nick Fisher, Hans van Wees, 2010-12-31 Ancient peoples like modern spent much of their lives engaged in and thinking about competitions both organised competitions with rules audiences and winners such as Olympic and gladiatorial games and informal indefinite often violent competition for fundamental goals such as power wealth and honour The varied papers in this book form a case for viewing competition for superiority as a major force in ancient history including the earliest human societies and the Assyrian and Aztec empires Papers on Greek history explore the idea of competitiveness as peculiarly Greek the intense and complex quarrel at the heart of Homer s Iliad and the importance of formal competitions in the creation of new political and social identities in archaic Sicyon and classical Athens Papers on the Roman world shed fresh light on Republican elections through a telling parallel from Renaissance Venice on modes of competitive display of wealth and power evident in elite villas in Italy in the imperial period and on the ambiguities in the competitive self representations of athletes sophists and emperors

House and Home Thomas Barrie, 2017-03-16 House and home are words routinely used to describe where and how one lives This book challenges predominant definitions and argues that domesticity fundamentally satisfies the human need to create and inhabit a defined place in the world Consequently house and home have performed numerous cultural and ontological roles and have been assiduously represented in scripture literature art and philosophy This book presents how the search for home in an unpredictable world led people to create myths about the origins of architecture houses for their gods and house tombs for eternal life Turning to more recent topics it discusses how writers often used simple huts as a means to address the essentials of existence modernist architects envisioned the capacity of house and home to improve society and the suburban
