The Hand W. Lewis Sain, 2023-07-12 We were like the Lafayette Escadrille flying our aircraft with precision and cunning like the World War I volunteer pilots scarves around our necks looking for a chance to even the score for that day's fighting Known as the Purple Gang those we supported knew that when the Purple Gang were on call they would be protected and had the best chance to come back from their mission alive Later in life as we gathered as old pilots at my home near Charlotte comparing our lives we realized that we had more in common than we could ever have known The hand of God was evident as we told our war stories and life stories We laughed we cried and the love for each other was so evident that we vowed to repeat our reunion again within the next year or so Little did we know that one of our own present that weekend would die that December the first in our band of brothers to fall after all this time All of us will miss you John Houston we called him Howdy

Vietnam and the Southern Imagination Owen W. Gilman, 1992 Much recent fiction from the American South has spotlighted the American ordeal in Vietnam and a generation of southern writers has been imaginatively preoccupied with ironic parallels that rise out of the Vietnam experience and their own region's tragic past This stimulating study of American cultural history discovers the powerful and intriguing links It shows how profoundly the Vietnam experience has penetrated the imaginations of some of America's most acclaimed writers and how their compulsive sense of southern history unites their vision with the history of the Vietnam War Set against the backdrop of their homeland Vietnam reveals striking parallels Works by a profusion of southern writers have disclosed this astonishing connection in their heritage James Webb Bobbie Ann Mason Jayne Anne Phillips Clyde Edgerton Madison Smartt Bell Barry Hannah Winston Groom Gustav Hasford Harry Crews Larry Brown Sydney Blair Pat Conroy David Huddle Yusef Komunyakaa and Walter McDonald have found in Vietnam many provocative echoes of fundamental issues that first came to a head in the American Civil War Out of the past the issue of race and the dedication to the land remain distinct themes in contemporary southern fiction about Vietnam This absorbing study of cultural echoes that have charged the creative imaginations of fifteen southern writers unites shades of the southern past with the reality of the American present Both periods have evinced an alarming impulse toward violence In this context James Dickey's Deliverance although not a novel about Vietnam becomes a paradigm of force and southern violence It serves to reveal the modern southern storyteller's imaginative vision of violence both past and present Whether writing of soldiers at war or of the tumult at home whether expressing the persisting anxiety about race relations or sustaining the community through storytelling southern writers have found in Vietnam a weirdly revelatory mirror of their own cultural heritage
