Answer: TRUE

Explanation: A problem is a difference between a desired state and an existing state. For example, suppose a person is hungry—the existing state of not having food. The desired state is to obtain food. So the problem is defined as the difference between the no-food state and the food state.

4) Managers identify a problem by comparing the current state of affairs to some standard.

Answer: TRUE

Explanation: The standard for comparison might be a goal that has been set, or comparison with some historical standard or standard set by a competitor. For example, a manager might detect a discrepancy between a goal of 100 units sold and the existing state of only 50 units sold. This discrepancy constitutes a problem that must be solved.
