Mascolo, Vincent C. Alfonso, Dawn P. Flanagan, 2014-02-24 A Resource for Designing and Implementing Intervention Programs for At Risk Learners This authoritative resource provides step by step procedures for planning selecting and tailoring interventions for at risk learners with a unique focus on how to individualize interventions using actual case examples In addition this volume offers guidelines for gathering and interpreting data in a manner that assists in identifying targets for intervention and rich discussion and information relating to specific academic cognitive and behavioral manifestations of students with learning difficulties in reading math writing and oral language Practitioners will also recognize and learn how to intervene with students from underserved and mis served populations who are at risk for learning failure including English language learners and students from impoverished environments Each chapter describes how specific difficulties interfere with classroom tasks and explain how to select modify or otherwise tailor an intervention based on that information As with all volumes in the Essentials of Psychological Assessment series this volume includes callout boxes highlighting key concepts extensive illustrative material and test questions The companion CD ROM provides additional worksheets case studies and handouts Foundations of Clinical Neuropsychology Charles J. Golden, P.J. Vicente, 2013-11-11 In the last decade neuropsychology has grown from a small subspecialty to a major component in the practice of clinical and medical psychology This growth has been caused by advances in psychological testing such as the Halstead Reitan neuropsychological battery as discussed in Chapter 5 that have made evaluation techniques in the field available to a wider audience by advances in neuroradiol ogy and related medical areas that have enabled us to better understand the struc ture and function of the brain in living individuals without significant potential harm to those individuals and by increased interest by psychologists and other scientists in the role that the brain plays in determining behavior Many disorders that were believed by many to be caused purely by learning or environment have been shown to relate at least in some cases to brain dysfunction or damage With the growth of the field there has been increased interest in the work of neuropsychologists by many who are not in the field Psychological Tests and Scales Kate Miriam Loewenthal, Christopher Alan Lewis, 2020-07-15 This text is a vital resource for those with little or no prior knowledge of computing or statistics to aid in the development of reliable and valid tests and scales for assessment or research purposes It serves as a clear concise and jargon free primer for all those embarking in fieldwork or research analysis The book contains detailed guidelines for locating and constructing psychological measures including descriptions of popular psychological measures and step by step instructions for composing a measure entering data and computing reliability and validity of test results Advanced techniques such as factor analysis analysis of covariance and multiple regression analysis are presented for the beginner This new edition has been revised throughout and includes updated statistical test procedures in line with the new version of SPSS and the inclusion of current academic articles It serves as an invaluable resource for undergraduates and postgraduates across the behavioral and social sciences as well as professionals in related disciplines including those working in management and medical sciences Foundations of Abnormal Psychology Perry London, David L. Rosenhan, 1968 Handbook of Clinical Psychology in Medical Settings Ronald H. Rozensky, Jerry J. Sweet, Steven M. Tovian, 2013-06-29 For two decades I have been responding to questions about the nature of health psychology and how it differs from medical psychology behavioral medicine and clinical psychology From the beginning I have taken the position that any applica tion of psychological theory or practice to problems and issues of the health system is health psychology I have repeatedly used an analogy to Newell and Simon's General Problem Solver program of the late 1950s and early 1960s which had two major functional parts in addition to the executive component One was the problem solving core the procedural competence the other was the representation of the problem environment In the analogy the concepts knowledge and techniques of psychology constitute the core competence the health system in all its complexity is the problem environment A health psychologist is one whose basic competence in psychology is augmented by a working knowledge of some aspect of the health system Quite apparently there are functionally distinct aspects of health psychology to the degree that there are meaningful subdivisions in psychological competence and significantly different microenvironments within the health system I hesitate to refer to them as areas of specialization as the man who gave health
