Lactivism Courtney Jung,2015-11-24 Breastfeeding has become a moral imperative in 21st century America Once upon a time this moral imperative made sense Breastfeeding was believed to bring multiple health benefits including increased resistance to many chronic and even fatal diseases protection against Sudden Infant Death Syndrome SIDS improved intelligence and countless immunities The irony now however is that breastfeeding continues to gain moral force just as scientists are showing that its benefits have been greatly exaggerated In 2012 the American Academy of Pediatrics and the Center for Disease Control and Prevention declared the failure to breastfeed a public health issue thus placing bottle feeding on par with smoking obesity and unsafe sex Recently politicians too have launched highly visible breastfeeding initiatives such as former New York Mayor Michael Bloomberg s well publicized Latch On campaign And meanwhile women who don t breastfeed their babies have found themselves with a lot of explaining to do Physicians public health officials and other mothers are pressuring them to breastfeed even though the best science shows that the advantages of doing so are minimal at best What is going on In Lactivism Courtney Jung offers the most deeply researched and far reaching critique of the breastfeeding imperative to date Drawing on a wide range of evidence from rigorously peer reviewed scientific research to interviews with physicians politicians business interests activists social workers and mothers from across the social and political spectrum Jung presents an eye opening account of how a practice that began as an alternative to Big Business has become Big Business itself maximum pressure of about 4 000 Pa While a good manual breast pump should produce at least about 2 000 Pa However the area is not suitable to be reducing in a great number due to the ergonomics condition Texas WIC Breast Pump Procedures Manual Texas. Department of State Health Services, Special Supplemental Nutrition Program for Women, Infants, and Children (U.S.), 2005

A Preliminary Design of the Manual Breast Pump Nurul Syazrin Roslan, 2009 This study is to design the manual breast pump with an ergonomics approach The problem statement of the study is to solve the musculoskeletal problems among mothers especially those who feed their babies using the manual breast pump Meanwhile the objectives for this study is to design a manual breast pump with an ergonomics approach using the Solidwork and to analyze the designed manual breast pump using the manual calculation The methodology for this project used the survey instrument which is questionnaires and the software for the design stage Result is the chapter where the analysis of the questionnaires that were distributed to the respondents It is also included the analysis of the main part using the manual calculation Lastly it recovers the conclusion for the project The study hopefully can help the future researcher in order to create and develop the new design for the manual breast pump
