

the line slap is eliminated and you are attaining maximum casting distance. On fly rods adjust the position of the butt guide to where the line "shoots" most comfortably without slapping against the blank. On any rod you have determined the correct position of the butt guide when the rod casts the greatest distance. It should not be moved again in the following steps.

To determine proper guide spacing, position rod with guides up in a workable arc.

Guides too far apart

Guides moved closer

Next you will locate the remaining guides to distribute stress proportionately along the rod. On spinning rods, have someone hold the rod upside down at about a 45-degree angle. Lock the anti-reverse and pull down on the line so that the rod bends as it would when fighting a fish. Check to make sure the line goes from guide to guide without touching the blank. If it does, adjust the position of the guides working from the No. 1 guide towards the butt guide. Do not move the butt guide. The same procedure should be followed on steelhead rods and casting rods, but here you might find it necessary to move the butt guide slightly closer to the reel. On fly rods, a stress distribution test of this type will not work, since the guides sit too low. Instead, do not move the butt guide, but more carefully space the remaining guides progressively closer towards the tip.

STEP No. 5: Wrapping.

Sight along the blank to make sure all the guides are in perfect alignment with each other, the tip-top, and the fixed hood of the reel seat. Thread tension is provided by placing the spool behind a large open book. Pull off a few feet of thread, lay it across the page, and close the book. Put the spool in a cup to keep it from rolling away. Additional tension can be provided by piling more books on top, if needed. However, avoid using too much tension. The correct amount of tension will hold the guide firmly, but allow you to make minor adjustments in the guide's position after it is wrapped.

You will need a "tie-off loop" of about 6" of slightly heavier thread or 6 to 10 pound monofilament. The mono can have the ends tied together with a number of overhand knots to form a "handle." You will also need a razor blade.

Remove the tape from the guide foot to be wrapped. On single foot guides peel the tape back from the end of the foot about halfway to the guide ring, or use a narrow piece of tape. Start the wrap ahead of the
