The Childhood Immunization Schedule and Safety Institute of Medicine, Board on Population Health and Public Health Practice, Committee on the Assessment of Studies of Health Outcomes Related to the Recommended Childhood Immunization Schedule, 2013-04-27 Vaccines are among the most safe and effective public health interventions to prevent serious disease and death Because of the success of vaccines most Americans today have no firsthand experience with such devastating illnesses as polio or diphtheria Health care providers who vaccinate young children follow a schedule prepared by the U S Advisory Committee on Immunization Practices Under the current schedule children younger than six may receive as many as 24 immunizations by their second birthday New vaccines undergo rigorous testing prior to receiving FDA approval however like all medicines and medical interventions vaccines carry some risk Driven largely by concerns about potential side effects there has been a shift in some parents attitudes toward the child immunization schedule The Childhood Immunization Schedule and Safety identifies research approaches methodologies and study designs that could address questions about the safety of the current schedule This report is the most comprehensive examination of the immunization schedule to date The IOM authoring committee uncovered no evidence of major safety concerns associated with adherence to the childhood immunization schedule Should signals arise that there may be need for investigation however the report offers a framework for conducting safety research using existing or new data collection systems
