

APA Format–5th Edition

OVERVIEW–The APA style, as presented in this handout, is widely accepted in the Social Sciences. The American Psychological Association (APA) citation format requires parenthetical citations within the text rather than endnotes or footnotes. Citation in the text provides information, usually the name of the author and the date of publication, to lead the reader to the accompanying bibliographical entry. Complete information about each source cited in the text is supplied in a list called “References” found at the end of the research paper

NOTE: This guide is issued in single space; however, APA style requires double space throughout (e.g., title page, text, references, everything.)

Below, is an example of a few sentences from an article (Lapsley, D. & Edgerton, J., Fall 2002) in APA format that appeared in the Journal of Counseling and Development. Look at the three APA style parenthetical citations in this text, and then look at how the full citations would appear at the end of the paper in the reference list.

Once established, working models are said to be “core features of personality that are then carried into new relationships” (Collins & Read, 1994, p. 56). Indeed, one may seek out partners that conform to one’s internal working model of the self-in-relationship (Collins & Read, 1990)...Many assessment strategies now exist for measuring individual differences in adult attachment styles, using categories that parallel the attachment status classifications used in research on infancy. According to the fourfold scheme developed by Bartholomew and Horowitz (1991), the secure attachment style is characterized by a working model of the self as positive and an expectation that others are trustworthy, reliable, and available.
