

INTERACTIONS AMONG LIVING THINGS

The Flow of Energy

All organisms are dependent on each other for the energy and nutrients they need to survive. Energy is transferred from one organism to another through feeding. Energy flows from the sun to producers, then to consumers, and finally to decomposers.

Food Chains

Food chains show the flow of energy from one organism to another.

What if a bird ate a plant? Would it get energy? Yes, it would. Energy flows from the plant to the bird. This is why all organisms need to eat to get energy.

Producers are organisms that make their own food. They use energy from the sun to make food. Consumers are organisms that eat other organisms. They get energy from the food they eat.
