How does the cell membrane control movement of materials?

Why?

The membrane is critical to the maintenance of homeostasis in living organisms. The cell membrane separates the cell from the external environment and plays a critical role in regulating movement of material in and out of the cell. Additionally, eukaryotic cells are made complex by the presence of internal membranes that form organelles, so the cells may become specialized. These organelle membranes create compartments within the cell that can do specific functions.

Model 1 – Types of Ions and Molecules in a Cell

Type 1 Ions	Type 2 Molecules	Type 3 Molecules	Type 4 Molecules
Potassium: K^+	Glucose:	Water: Urea:	Molecular oxygen (O_2): Carbon dioxide (CO_2):
Sodium: Na^+
Calcium: Ca^{2+}
Chloride: Cl^-
Polar	polar	Polar	nonpolar
small	large	Small	Small

- Consider the ions and molecules in Model 1.
 - Identify at least two substances that would need to move into a cell to maintain homeostasis.
Cells need water and oxygen to maintain homeostasis.
 - Briefly explain why the cell needs each of the substances you identified in part a.
Oxygen is needed to help create ATP for energy for cells, where as water is used to break things down and cause reactions like protein synthesis within cells.
- Consider the ions and molecules in Model 1.
 - Identify at least two substances that would need to move out of a cell to maintain homeostasis.
Glucose and Carbon Dioxide (CO_2).
 - Briefly explain the source of the molecules you identified in part a.
Glucose is needed around the cells to help stimulate energy, and carbon dioxide is used to help breakdown oxygen for plant cells to use.
- Complete the table by labeling the types of substances as polar or nonpolar and large or small.

The Molecular Basis of Membrane Function Society of General Physiologists, 1969 Control of Membrane Function: short-term and long-term J.M. Ritchie, P. Magistretti, L. Bolis, 2012-12-02 A critical factor in cell to cell interactions is the presence in the cell membrane of highly specific ion channels controlled by specific receptors that are bound to and activated by a gamut of external hormones and neurotransmitters Through both this action on ion channels and action on other membrane components such as G proteins extracellular signals alter intracellular events usually through the mediation of second messengers and so provide the basis for the transduction mechanism connecting extracellular signals with intracellular effectors This volume deals with the various ways that such membrane function is controlled PreTest Key Concepts: Membrane function John R. RESEARCH INTO MEMBRANE ASSOCIATED PHENOMENA HAS EXPANDED VERY greatly in the five years that have elapsed since the first edition of Biological Membranes was published. It is to take account of rapid advances in the field that we have written the present edition. There is now general acceptance of the fluid mosaic model of membrane structure and of the chemiosmotic interpretation of energetic processes and our attention has shifted from justifying these ideas to explaining membrane functions in their terms. Much more information has become available concerning the role of the plasma membrane in the cell's recognition of and response to external signals and this is reflected in the increased coverage of these topics in the book. The general form of the book remains the same. As before a list of suggested reading sub divided by chapter is provided and this has been expanded to include a greater proportion of original papers. The book is still primarily designed as an advanced undergraduate text and also to serve as an introduction for post graduate workers entering the field of membrane research.
