Caught in the Act Cyril Julie, Lorna Holtman, Charles R. Smith, 2019-12-11 The research reported in Caught in the Act draws together the insights gained from a continuous professional development initiative for high school mathematics teachers teaching in low socio economic status and socially challenged environments in South Africa The chapters show the possibilities for enhancing achievement in school mathematics if a strength based approach is adopted to develop teaching with teachers and when their concerns are taken seriously The book demonstrates that the ecological relevance fitness for the context in which teachers are teaching of the goods developed and distributed by initiatives should be a major consideration to offer hope for sustainable implementation to improve school mathematics education The book is of interest to mathematics teachers school leaders mathematics curriculum advisors policy makers and researchers World

Results Now 2.0 Mike Schmoker, 2023-05-05 Decades of research clearly show what works in schools yet a huge gap persists between those instructional best practices and what is widely taught and not taught in classrooms today In Results Now 2.0 Mike Schmoker expands on his bestselling book and offers a broader deeper analysis of the entire K 12 education system and how it can improve He describes a systemic buffer of policies pedagogy and initiatives that prevents everyone teachers students and parents from understanding our collective failure to align instruction with evidence of what works We need to bridge the gap between proven practice and common practice By focusing on the fundamental elements of curriculum literacy and effective instruction Schmoker offers hope for the future He describes schools that have successfully used evidence and strategic practice to remove the buffer and he shows how schools can improve quickly This book is a call for both educators and the public to demand transparency and fidelity to the most effective actions that transform our schools and help us see results now

US-Chinese Strategic Triangles S. Mahmud Ali, 2017-06-07 This book reveals the nature of Sino US strategic competition by examining the influence exerted by major secondary stakeholders e.g. Japan, Russia, India, the Koreans and ASEAN on the two powers, USA and its rival China, who consider each other as a source of greatest challenges to their respective interests. By adopting strategic triangles as the analytical framework and assessing triangular relational dynamics such as US-China-Japan or US-China-Russia, the author illustrates how secondary stakeholders advance their own interests by exploiting their respective linkages to the two rivals, thereby shaping Sino-US competitive dynamics. This work adds a regional and multivariable perspective to the understanding of the Indo-Pacific's insecurity challenges.

Building the Federal Schoolhouse Douglas S. Reed, 2014-05-29 Over the past fifty years, the federal government's efforts to reform American public education have transformed U.S. schools from locally run enterprises into complex systems jointly constructed by federal, state, and local actors. The construction of this federal schoolhouse, an educational system with common national expectations and practices, has fundamentally altered both education politics and the norms governing educational policy at the local level. Building the Federal Schoolhouse examines these issues through an in-depth, fifty-year examination of federal educational policies in the community of Alexandria, Virginia, a wealthy yet socially diverse suburb of Washington, D.C. The epochal social transformations that swept through America in the past half-century hit Alexandria with particular force, transforming its Jim Crow school system into a new immigrant gateway district within two generations. Along the way, the school system has struggled to provide quality education for special needs students and has sought to overcome the legacies of tracking and segregated learning while simultaneously retaining upper-middle-class students. Most recently, it has grappled with state and federally imposed accountability measures that seek to boost educational outcomes. All of these policy initiatives have contended with the existing political regime within Alexandria, at times forcing it to a breaking point and at other times reconstructing it. All the while, the local expectations and governing realities of administrators, parents, politicians, and voters have sharply constrained federal initiatives, limiting their scope when in conflict with local commitments and amplifying them when they align. Through an extensive use of local archives, contemporary accounts, school data, and interviews, Douglas S. Reed not only paints an intimate portrait of the conflicts that the federal schoolhouse's creation has wrought in Alexandria but also documents the successes of the federal commitment to greater educational opportunity. In so doing, he highlights the complexity of the American education state and the centrality of local regimes and local historical context to federal educational reform efforts.

Interdisciplinary Approaches to Multilingualism Suzanne Curtin, Mary Grantham O'Brien, Rahat Naqvi, 2015-07-16 This research topic stems from the Interdisciplinary Approaches to Multilingualism conference, which was hosted by the Language Research Centre at the University of Calgary. It was the first conference of its kind, which brought together the work of researchers, educators, and policy makers in the areas of first and second language acquisition from psycholinguistic and pedagogical perspectives. The goal was to provide an opportunity for participants to engage with the implications of multilingualism from a range of perspectives, including the effects of being bilingual from infancy to adulthood the process and benefits of learning multiple languages and the impact of multilingualism on society     Exploring Management John R. Schermerhorn, Jr., Daniel G. FOR MILITARY HISTORY DISTINGUISHED BOOK AWARDS FIRST BOOK This book informs the public for the first time about the impact of American psychiatry on soldiers during World War II Breaking Point is the first in depth history of American psychiatry in World War II Drawn from unpublished primary documents oral histories and the author's personal interviews and correspondence over years with key psychiatric and military policymakers it begins with Franklin Roosevelt's endorsement of a universal Selective Service psychiatric examination followed by Army and Navy pre and post induction examinations Ultimately 2.5 million men and women were rejected or discharged from military service on neuropsychiatric grounds Never before or since has the United States engaged in such a program In designing Selective Service Medical Circular No 1 psychiatrist Harry Stack Sullivan assumed psychiatrists could predict who might break down or falter in military service or even in civilian life thereafter While many American and European psychiatrists questioned this belief and huge numbers of American psychiatric casualties soon raised questions about screening's validity psychiatric and military leaders persisted in 1942 and 1943 in endorsing ever tougher screening and little else Soon families complained of fathers and teens being drafted instead of being identified as psychiatric 4Fs and Blacks and Native Americans among others complained of bias A frustrated General George S Patton famously slapped two malingering neuropsychiatric patients in Sicily a sentiment shared by Marshall and Eisenhower though they favored a tamer style Yet psychiatric rejections evacuations and discharges mounted While psychiatrist Roy Grinker and a few others treated soldiers close to the front in Tunisia in early 1943 this was the exception But as demand for manpower soared and psychiatrists finally went to the field and saw that combat itself not predisposition precipitated breakdown leading military psychiatrists switched their emphasis from screening to prevention and treatment But this switch was too little too late and slowed by a year long series of Inspector General investigations even while numbers of psychiatric casualties soared Ironically despite and even partly because of psychiatrists wartime performance plus the emotional toll of war postwar America soon witnessed a dramatic growth in numbers popularity and influence of the profession culminating in the National Mental Health Act 1946 But veterans with PTSD not recognized until 1980 were largely neglected
