Making Black History Dominique Haensell, 2021-10-04 This study proposes that rather than trying to discern the normative value of Afropolitanism as an identificatory concept politics ethics or aesthetics Afropolitanism may be best approached as a distinct historical and cultural moment that is a certain historical constellation that allows us to glimpse the shifting and multiple silhouettes which Africa as signifier as real and imagined locus embodies in the globalized yet predominantly Western cultural landscape of the 21st century As such Making Black History looks at contemporary fictions of the African or Black Diaspora that have been written and received in the moment of Afropolitanism Discursively this moment is very much part of a diasporic conversation that takes place in the US and is thus informed by various negotiations of blackness race class and cultural identity Yet rather than interpreting Afropolitan literatures merely as a rejection of racial solidarity as some commentators have they should be read as ambivalent responses to post racial discourses dominating the first decade of the 21st century particularly in the US which oscillate between moments of intense hope and acute disappointment Please read our interview with Dominique Haensell here <https://blog.degruyter.com/de-gruyters-10th-open-access-book-anniversary-dominique-haensell-and-her-winning-title-making-black-history>
