

ECONOMICS GRADE 10 NOTES

FROM CHAPTER 9

husbandry and agriculture

9.1.1 Characteristics of the agricultural stage of economic development

- The San and Khoikhoi groups used basic hunting weapons, such as bows and arrows.
- The Nguni and the Sotho groups used implements to till the soil and weapons for hunting and war. They were also herders of cattle, sheep and goats.
- People produced agricultural goods for themselves, seldom to trade.
- There was a little trade, mostly in the form of bartering.
- There were no well-developed markets.
- Most of the economic activity in South Africa was agriculture and hunting.
- There was a small population on large pieces of land.
- Labour was scarce; slaves were imported as extra labour.
- Capital was scarce.
- Most farmers produced almost everything they needed themselves.

9.1.2 Factors promoting economic development in agriculture

- The Dutch could barter with the Khoi and the San for land.
- Plentiful game made hunting easy.
- A small market developed for selling food products to the passing ships.
- The colonial powers protected the markets. For example, Britain taxed imports of French wines to promote sales of wines from the Cape to people in Britain.
- In the Cape, local taxes on imports promoted local production of food. For example, a tax on wheat imports in the 1820s encouraged farmers to grow wheat.
- Improved transport and infrastructure

9.1.3 Factors hampering economic development in agriculture

- Lack of capital.
- Labour was scarce.
- There were few or no schools and other educational institutions; most people had little or no education.
- Most areas had little or no infrastructure.
- The colonial powers often had monopolies in the markets. For example, farmers could only sell their goods to the Dutch East India Company.

Adapting Public Policy to a Labour Market in Transition France St-Hilaire, 2000 After two decades of rapid technological and structural change and an overall record of poor economic performance Canadians need to take stock of the ongoing transformation of the labour market and its implications for public policy The fundamental changes to the nature of work itself suggest that labour and social policies established decades ago may no longer be adequate or appropriate Moreover the continuing perception of increased instability and worsening employment outcomes and the growing concern over increased earnings inequality and labour market polarisation have raised serious questions about the role of government not only in addressing the consequences of economic adjustment but also in facilitating or worse hampering this process In Adapting Public Policy to a Labour Market in Transition leading labour market specialists examine specific areas of public policy that have generated considerable attention and debate in recent years They provide new evidence on issues of utmost concern to the well being of Canadians and a solid assessment of the challenges and avenues for policy reform
