Atkinson,Ray Welland,2012-12-06 Research into Fully Integrated Data Environments FIDE has the goal of substantially improving the quality of application systems while reducing the cost of building and maintaining them Application systems invariably involve the long term storage of data over months or years Much unnecessary complexity obstructs the construction of these systems when conventional databases file systems operating systems communication systems and programming languages are used This complexity limits the sophistication of the systems that can be built generates operational and usability problems and deleteriously impacts both reliability and performance This book reports on the work of researchers in the Esprit FIDE projects to design and develop a new integrated environment to support the construction and operation of such persistent application systems It reports on the principles they employed to design it the prototypes they built to test it and their experience using it INGRES/REPORTS, Report-writer Reference Manual Ingres (Firm),1990 Scientific and Technical Aerospace Reports ,1995 Ingres ,1991 Sourcebook I-small Systems Software and Services Sourcebook Ruth K. Kalinichenko,2013-06-29 This volume results from the four day scientific Second International East West Database Workshop which took place 25th 28th September 1994 in Klagenfurt Austria continuing a series of workshops started in Kiev in 1990 Lecture Notes in Computer Science No 504 Springer Next Generation Information System Technology The aims of this workshop are twofold first to provide a forum for the presentation and in depth discussion of scientific achievements in the field of advanced databases that will effectively improve the building and use of future information systems second to establish and increase communication between research communities which were formerly separated and therefore had only rare opportunities to interact It should establish contacts between researchers from the East and from the West to make exchange of ideas possible and to trigger collaborations. However, it is not only political borders which change their perviousness as a result of or giving rise to new autonomies or new possibilities for interaction and collaboration. The same happens with the borders between scientific areas, in particular in the dynamically evolving areas of computer science. Databases and programming languages are integrated in object oriented databases; database and information retrieval technology form together the basis for modern multimedia information systems. Furthermore, the borders between different information systems change and allow various forms of collaboration while maintaining different degrees of autonomy. Heterogeneous and distributed databases are enabling technologies for these systems.

Resistance of Concrete to Chloride Ingress Luping Tang, Lars-Olof Nilsson, P A Muhammed Basheer, 2011-10-06 Chloride ingress in reinforced concrete induces corrosion and consequent spalling and structural weakness and it occurs world wide and imposes an enormous cost. Yet it can be resisted by using test methods and relevant models for service life prediction. Resistance of Concrete to Chloride Ingress sets out current understanding of chloride transport.

Applications of Databases Witold Litwin, Tore Risch, 1994-06-06 This volume presents the proceedings of the First International Conference on Applications of Databases ADB 94 held at Vadstena, Sweden, in June 1994. ADB 94 provided a unique platform for the discussion of innovative applications of databases among database researchers, developers and application designers. The 28 refereed papers were carefully selected from more than 100 submissions. They report on DB applications, for example, in air traffic modelling, maps, environment, finance, engineering, electronic publishing and digital libraries, and they are devoted to advanced database services, as for example, image, text and multimedia modelling, fuzzy set based querying, knowledge management, heterogeneous multidatabase management and intelligent networks.

NASA SP-7500 United States. National Aeronautics and Space Administration, Readings in Database Systems Joseph M. Hellerstein, Michael Stonebraker, 2005 The latest edition of a popular text and reference on database research with substantial new material and revision covers classical literature and recent hot topics. Lessons from database research have been applied in academic fields ranging from bioinformatics to next generation Internet architecture and in industrial uses including Web based e commerce and search engines. The core ideas in the field have become increasingly influential. This text provides both students and professionals with a grounding in database research and a technical context for understanding recent innovations in the field. The readings included treat the most important issues in the database area, the basic material for any DBMS professional. This fourth edition has been substantially updated and revised with 21 of the 48 papers new to the edition, four of them published for the first time. Many of the sections have been newly organized and each section includes a new or substantially revised introduction that discusses the context, motivation and controversies in a particular area, placing it in the broader perspective of database research. Two introductory articles, never before published, provide an organized current introduction to basic knowledge of the field: one discusses the history of data models and query languages and the other offers an architectural overview of a database system The remaining articles range from the classical literature on database research to treatments of current hot topics including a paper on search engine architecture and a paper on application servers both written expressly for this edition The result is a collection of papers that are seminal and also accessible to a reader who has a basic familiarity with database systems
