archival fieldwork she engages with developers policy makers scientists farmers and rural migrants to show how Bangladeshi and global elites ignore the history of landscape transformation and its attendant political conflicts Paprocki looks at how groups craft economic narratives and strategies that redistribute power and resources away from peasant communities Although these groups claim that increased production of export commodities will reframe the threat of climate change into an opportunity for economic development and growth the reality is not so simple For the country s rural poor these promises ring hollow As development dispossesses the poor from agrarian livelihoods outmigration from peasant communities leads to precarious existences in urban centers And a vision of development in which urbanization and export led growth are both desirable and inevitable is not one the land and its people can sustain Threatening Dystopias shows how a powerful rural movement although hampered by an all consuming climate emergency is seeking climate justice in Bangladesh The London Review and Weekly Journal of Politics, Literature, Art, & Society ,1862

Social Work and the Environment

Michael Kim Zapf,2009 This ground breaking new work provides a detailed and extensive comparison of how the physical environment has been conceptualized in social work and other professions and offers a new and attractive foundational metaphor for social work The author acknowledges the need for greater awareness and action regarding environmental impacts and the book promotes more comprehensive notions of responsibility identity and stewardship that lead to a dynamic metaphor of people as place as the foundation for relevant social work practice in the early 21st century Why is that a profession with a declared focus on person in environment has been so silent on the environmental crisis Mainstream social work theory has narrowed the understanding of environment to include merely the social environment but this approach is no longer sufficient for participation in multi disciplinary efforts to tackle urgent environmental issues Transformative notions of responsibility identity and stewardship have been developed on the fringes of our professional community rural remote social workers Aboriginal social workers and international and spiritual social workers They must now move to the core of the profession
