Hyman,2016-07-27 The contributions by epidemic modeling experts describe how mathematical models and statistical forecasting are created to capture the most important aspects of an emerging epidemic Readers will discover a broad range of approaches to address questions such as Can we control Ebola via ring vaccination strategies How quickly should we detect Ebola cases to ensure epidemic control What is the likelihood that an Ebola epidemic in West Africa leads to secondary outbreaks in other parts of the world When does it matter to incorporate the role of disease induced mortality on epidemic models What is the role of behavior changes on Ebola dynamics How can we better understand the control of cholera or Ebola using optimal control theory How should a population be structured in order to mimic the transmission dynamics of diseases such as chlamydia Ebola or cholera How can we objectively determine the end of an epidemic How can we use metapopulation models to understand the role of movement restrictions and migration patterns on the spread of infectious diseases How can we capture the impact of household transmission using compartmental epidemic models How could behavior dependent vaccination affect the dynamical outcomes of epidemic models The derivation and analysis of the mathematical models addressing these questions provides a wide ranging overview of the new approaches being created to better forecast and mitigate emerging epidemics This book will be of interest to researchers in the field of mathematical epidemiology as well as public health workers

Environmental Resilience Percy Toriro, Innocent Chirisa, 2021-05-21 This book discusses the production distribution regulatory and management frameworks that affect food in urban settings It plugs a gap in knowledge especially in the sub Saharan Africa region where food despite its critical importance has been ignored as a determinant of success in the planning and management of cities and towns The various chapters in the book demonstrate how urban populations in Zimbabwe and elsewhere have often devised ways to produce own food to supplement on their incomes Food is produced largely by way of urban agriculture or imported from the countryside and sold in both formal and informal stores and stalls The book shows how in spite of the important space food occupies in the lives of all city residents the planning and regulatory framework does not facilitate the better performance of food systems

The African Mother Tongue and Mathematical Ideas Abdul Karim Bangura,2020-06-02 This book by renowned scholar Dr Abdul Karim Bangura combines linguistics and mathematics to show how and why African centred mathematical ideas can be a driving force in Africa s development efforts Bangura explores the concept that Africa has been the centre of the History of Mathematics for thousands of years as the civilizations that emerged across the continent developed contributions which would enrich both ancient and modern understanding of nature through mathematics However scholars and other professionals working in the field of mathematics education in Africa have identified a plethora of issues in carrying out their tasks This is highlighted by one of the most compelling arguments in the book which is that a major reason for these problems is the fact that the African mother tongues has been greatly neglected in the teaching of mathematics in the continent Bangura asserts that a change has to be made in order for Africa to benefit from the exceptional opportunities mathematics offer showing that even if there is a great body of work connecting linguistics and mathematics few analyses have been performed on the link between African languages and mathematics and the ones that have been made are not theoretically grounded on linguistics Thus the book begins by identifying the objects of study of linguistics and mathematics and delineates which ones they have in common Next since the object of study of linguistics is language the nine design features of language are employed to examine each of the objects as it pertains to African languages After that mathematical ideas of sustainability and those of tipping points are suggested as means to help Africa s development efforts
