Alan Booth,2017-05-15 A recurring theme in the history of modern Britain in the twentieth century has been the failure of its manufacturing industry and the record of disorder and conflict in the industrial workplace This image was reinforced by the evidence of national strikes from the 1960s until 1984 This emphasis on decline and disorder in British manufacturing has distorted our understanding of workplace relationships and cultures in the post war years This volume provides a fresh assessment of the diverse and complex world of the workplace and Britain s production cultures during the long boom Essays investigate the public and private sectors and both manufacturing and service industries The volume begins with a comparison of labour management in the post war automobile industry exploring the role of the foreman in the management of shop floor labour in Britain and the USA The following two essays are concerned with relations between management and workers in the publicly owned corporations The first examines negotiations over pay and effort at the Swindon locomotive works including the cultural values which informed the behaviour of the bargainers The second investigates managerial responses to technical change in the British gas industry We then move into the service sector with an essay on the management of clerical staff in banks including a discussion of the different roles available to male and female workers and the incorporation of automated technologies The final essay looks at the involvement of the unions in workplace productivity and the extent to which Labour politics informed union behaviour The essays in this volume shed new light on the reasons for Britain's economic performance and opens up earlier interpretations of national decline and adversarial workplace cultures for further debate

Understanding the People and Performance Link John Purcell, 2003-05-01 This report the most in depth of its kind to date confirms the powerful relationships between HR practices employee commitment and operating performance It is based on a three year investigation which looked at the HR practices staff views and performance in 11 large organisations including Jaguar Cars Nationwide Building Society Selfridges and Tesco The study provides answers to why and how people management practices influence business performance to unlock what has been termed the black box Key conclusions include the most carefully thought through HR strategy is a waste of time unless it is embraced by line managers who have the skills and understanding necessary to engage and motivate employees where effective HR practices are not in place levels of employee commitment are up to 90 per cent lower an organisation needs a clear direction and purpose beyond the bland mission statement or generic goal of financial returns which engages enthuses and unites people At the Nationwide Building Society this is a commitment to mutuality At Royal United Hospital Bath it is saving lives This big idea appears essential in motivating and directing people behind the strategy of the organisation
