10.3 Action Verbs

Key Information

Action verbs describe physical or mental action.

jog
smile point

think

Transitive verbs are action verbs followed by words that answer what? or whom?

Jack made his own wedding cake. [The words wedding cake follow the transitive verb made and answer the question made what?]

Intransitive verbs are also action verbs, but they are not followed by words that answer what? or whom?

Condors live in the Andes. [The intransitive verb live is followed by the words in the Andes, which tell where, not what or whom.]

A. Identifying Transitive and Intransitive Verbs

The following excerpt is from The Waves, a novel by British writer Virginia Woolf. Write whether each of the boldface action verbs in the excerpt is transitive (T) or intransitive (I). If the verb is transitive, underline the word or words following it that answer the question what? or whom?

Literature Model

The light struck upon the trees in the garden, making one leaf transparent and then another. One bird chirped high up; there was a pause; another chirped lower down. The sun sharpened the walls of the house, and rested like the tip of a fan upon a white blind and made a blue fingerprint of shadow under the leaf by the bedroom window. The blind stirred slightly, but all within was dim and unsubstantial. The birds sang their blank melody outside. . . .

The waves broke and spread their waters swiftly over the shore. One after another they massed themselves and fell; the spray tossed itself back with the energy of their fall.

Virginia Woolf, The Waves

B. Using Transitive and Intransitive Verbs

Write five sentences about yourself. Identify each action verb you use as transitive (T) or intransitive (I). Sentences will vary.

1. _____
2. _____
3. _____

The Navajo Sound System J.M. McDonough, 2012-12-06 The Navajo language is spoken by the Navajo people who live in the Navajo Nation located in Arizona and New Mexico in the southwestern United States The Navajo language belongs to the Southern or Apachean branch of the Athabaskan language family Athabaskan languages are closely related by their shared morphological structure these languages have a productive and extensive inflectional morphology The Northern Athabaskan languages are primarily spoken by people indigenous to the sub arctic stretches of North America Related Apachean languages are the Athabaskan languages of the Southwest Chiricahua Jicarilla White Mountain and Mescalero Apache While many other languages like English have benefited from decades of research on their sound and speech systems instrumental analyses of indigenous languages are relatively rare There is a great deal of work to do before a chapter on the acoustics of Navajo comparable to the standard acoustic description of English can be produced The kind of detailed phonetic description required for instance to synthesize natural sounding speech or to provide a background for clinical studies in a language is well beyond the scope of a single study but it is necessary to begin this greater work with a fundamental description of the sounds and supra segmental structure of the language Inkeeping with this the goal of this project is to provide a baseline description of the phonetic structure of Navajo as it is spoken on the Navajo reservation today to provide a foundation for further work on the language
