Hutcheon's theory is that adaption can actually be broken down into three categories: reduction in which lines and scenes are cut (Kidnie 3), adaptation in which new material is added alongside scenes and lines being cut (Kidnie 3), and transformation in which the characters are "simplified and trundled through new events and the ending is scrapped" (Kidnie 3). Kidnie then explores the adaptation category in further detail stating that adaptation is "an acknowledged transposition of a recognizable other work or works", "a creative and interpretive act of appropriation/salvaging" and "an extended textual engagement with the adapted work" (Kidnie 3). Kidnie suggests that instead of attacking or defending an original work that instead critics can explore and derive

Integrating Safety-II into Safety Management Toni Wäfler, Rahel Gugerli, Giulio Nisoli, 2020-12-22 We all aim for safe processes However providing safety is a complex endeavour What is it that makes a process safe And what is the contribution of humans It is very common to consider humans a risk factor prone to errors Therefore we implement sophisticated safety management systems SMS in order to prevent potential human failure These SMS provide an impressive increase of safety In safety science this approach is labelled Safety I and it starts to be questioned because humans do not show failures only On the contrary they often actively contribute to safety sometimes even by deviating from a procedure This Safety II perspective considers humans to be a safety factor as well because of their ability to adjust behaviour to the given situation However adaptability requires scope of action and this is where Safety I and Safety II contradict each other While the former restricts freedom of action the latter requires room for manoeuvring Thus the task of integrating the Safety II perspective into SMS which are traditionally Safety I based is difficult This challenge was the main objective of our project We discovered two methods that contribute to the quality of SMS by integrating Safety II into SMS without jeopardizing the Safety I approach
