

Evaporator Condenser Ratings

An evaporator condenser rated at a condensing temperature of 100°F and a wet bulb temperature of 70°F will have rating factors under other conditions as follows:

Condenser Temp. °F	Entering Air Wet Bulb Temp. °F
	55°	60°	65°	70°	75°	78°

40 For sealed compressors.

The capacity of a typical compressor is reduced as the evaporating temperature is reduced because of increased specific volume (cu ft/lb) of the refrigerant and lower compressor volumetric efficiency. The average 1 hp compressor will have a capacity of nearly 12,000-btu/hr per ton, at 40°F refrigerant temperature, 100°F condensing temperature. A 10° rise/fall in condensing temperature will reduce/increase capacity about 6%.

Proper System Charging

Subcooling Charging Method - TXV (Expansion Valve)

Subcooling is defined as: The temperature of a liquid refrigerant when it is cooled below its condensing temperature. Subcooling takes place in the condenser and is determined by subtracting the liquid line temperature (as read on a thermometer strapped on the liquid line) from the saturation temperature (gauge temperature - the temperature that corresponds to the pressure read on the high side of the gauge).

- Locate the unit required subcooling from the name plate or product literature. (Typically 8-12°F).
- Measure liquid line temperature - convert to pressure.
- Subtract the required subcooling (1) from the converted temperature (2). This is the required liquid line temperature.
- Measure the liquid line temperature. If the measured temperature does not equal the required liquid line temperature:
 - Add refrigerant to lower the temperature.
 - Remove refrigerant to raise the temperature.
 - Allow a tolerance of +/- 3°F.

Superheat Charging Chart - Cooling - Non TXV (Expansion Valve)

Superheat is defined as: The temperature of vapor refrigerant above its saturation point (evaporation) temperature. Superheat occurs in the evaporator and is determined by subtracting the saturation temperature (the temperature that corresponds to the pressure read on the low-side gauge) from the suction line temperature (as read on a thermometer strapped on the suction line).

98	68	78	0.75
98	68	80	0.62

Hot water - Cold Water = Range

Cold Water - Hot Water = Approach

The Capacity factor is a multiplier by which the capacity at any common assumed condition may be found if the rating at some other point is known. Factors are based on heat rejection ratio of 1.25 (15,000 btu/hr per ton) and gpm/ton flow rate.

Example: at 95-85-80, the capacity is 0.62/0.85 or 0.73 that of the rating of 90-80-70.

Capacity is reduced as the flow rate per ton is increased. If the refrigerant temperature is below 40°F, the heat rejection will be greater than 15,000 btu/hr per ton. Evaporation will cause increasing deposits of solids and fouling of the condenser tubes unless water is bled off. A bleed of 1% of the circulation rate will result in concentrations of twice the original solids (two concentrations), and 0.5% bleed will result in three concentrations.

Horsepower Per Ton
