Get the Picture: Visual Literacy in Content-Area Instruction Marva Cappello, Nancy T. Walker, 2019-07-01 Visual sources are increasingly prevalent in today's society. This cross-curricular resource by Marva Cappello and Nancy T. Walker provides teachers with new and engaging strategies to help students closely read visual texts. Teachers will learn to evaluate the complexity of visual texts and match them to their students. Students will learn to analyze visual sources, understand both explicit and implicit messages, interpret underlying meaning, and engage in meaningful discussion. Based on practical research, this approach offers students engagement in the full suite of Language Arts as defined by the International Literacy Association and National Council of Teachers of English: reading, writing, listening, speaking, viewing, and visually representing. The strategies are divided by purpose: receptive and productive strategies, and arranged by content area to support all teachers. Sample lessons for grades K-1 and 2-3 are provided for each strategy. With concrete tools and techniques and a wide range of suggested visual texts to use in the classroom, teachers can prepare students for interaction with primary sources, digital media, and the visual-heavy world of 21st-century learning. Digital downloads of visual texts and student pages are included.

Market your talent. Create and improve a storyboard using computers. Packed full of practical industry information and examples, this book will help the reader improve their skills to either land their first assignment or advance their career.

Integrative Strategies for the K-12 Social Studies Classroom Timothy Lintner,2013-03-01 While the concept of integration or an interdisciplinary curriculum has been around for decades the purposeful practice of integration is a relatively new educational endeavor Though classroom teachers often say they integrate there generally seems to be a lack of understanding of what this thing called integration is theory and what it is supposed to look like in the classroom practice Arguably no other discipline has felt the pressure to integrate more than social studies Marginalized by federal initiatives such as No Child Left Behind and suffering from a general crisis of credibility social studies has been pushed further and further to the proverbial back burner of educational importance Yet regardless of perspective or position social studies remains ripe for integration The crux of this book is to provide educators insights and strategies into how to integrate social studies with other discipline areas Calling upon national experts in their respective fields each chapter chronicles the broad relationship between individual content areas and social studies Multiple examples of integrative opportunities are included At the end of each chapter is a series of grade specific integrative lesson plans ready for implementation This book was purposefully designed as a how to hands on ready reference guide for educators at all stages and all levels of teaching
