British Encounters with Syrian-Mesopotamian Overland Routes to India, 1751-1795 Mohammad Sakhnini, 2023-03-14 This book argues that eighteenth century British travel writings about the Arabian Overland Routes to India offered fascinating anecdotes of encounters that allow us to rethink Enlightenment understanding of the meaning of improvement Travelling among and writing about the inhabitants government culture religion and ruins of Syria and Mesopotamia offered Britons opportunities to pose themselves in their narratives as men of improvement abroad To that end travelling appeared in their books as serious attempt to improve their readers knowledge about a region that many in Britain saw as decayed barbaric and primitive But the various encounters British travellers experienced in the region allowed them to negotiate the impact of excessive materialism on the traditions morality religion and landscape of eighteenth century Britain At the heart of this book s understanding of Enlightenment writings about the Levant is the idea that a journey in a region which many considered as a theatre for the arts sciences and military conquests in the past and decay in the present represents a fraught relationship modern Europeans had with the past present and future

British Travellers and the Encounter with Britain, 1450-1700 John Cramsie, 2015 Encounters with a multicultural Britain in the Tudor and Stuart periods written with an eye to debates about immigration and ethnicity in today's Britain This book recovers the encounter with a multicultural Britain by British travellers in the Tudor and Stuart periods When William Camden writing in the sixteenth century set out to write the history of Britannia he deliberately took to the roads to discover it first hand and those diverse cultures guided and informed his journeys Here John Cramsie offers original perspectives on Camden's multicultural Britain through the study of British travellers and their narratives We meet characters such as the Tudor traveller John Leland who intended to tell the peoples of England and Wales about themselves chronicle how they came to settle the towns villages valleys and mountaintops they called home record the marks they left in the landscape and celebrate the noble histories and cultures they created Dozens eventually hundreds of Britons shared the same passion to meet their island neighbours and relate their experiences The individuals studied in this book include actual as well as armchair travellers and those who blurred the boundaries between them Their letters diaries journals and histories range from the epic poignant and matter of fact to the exotic preposterous and hateful the sources include actual and imaginative narratives and those which combined both elements Travellers painted Britain with in Leland's words native colours that were rich vibrant and above all complex Their remarkable journeys are the story of how Britons over two centuries met interacted and attempted or not to understand one another Written with an eye to debates about immigration and ethnicity in today's Britain the book emphasizes the long history of making and remaking the island's cultural mosaic The encounter with Britain's native colours has been a burden of history and opportunity for millennia not simply for our own times

JOHN CRAMSIE is Associate Professor Department of History Union College NY

Sex, Tourism and the Postcolonial Encounter Jessica Jacobs, 2012-11-28 Illustrated by revealing interviews with women and men in the tourist resorts in the Sinai Egypt this book is ostensibly about western women who sleep with native men while on holiday Broadening the scope of issues involved it examines the link between these holiday romances and a much wider romanticism of place and people of the landscapes of paradise deserts and the lure of the Bedouin sheikh that are used to sell these destinations It argues that the romantic stereotyping and deliberate positioning of Third World resorts as places that somehow exist outside of the modernities the women come from is inextricably bound up in the relationships Similarly for the local man the tourist resort is perceived as a place other than his own cultural space and time and represents a modernity that is otherwise only found in the West The relationships that ensue can therefore only occur because the tourist resort acts as an intermediate space In analyzing the interaction of these men and women within the context of modernity the book provides insights into gender issues to do with globalization travel and sexuality as well as opening up the debate on sex tourism and showing this to be a lot more ambiguous and complicated than it might at first appear

Handbook of British Travel Writing Barbara

Schaff,2020-09-07 This handbook offers a systematic exploration of current key topics in travel writing studies It addresses the history impact and unique discursive variety of British travel writing by covering some of the most celebrated and canonical authors of the genre as well as lesser known ones in more than thirty close reading chapters Combining theoretically informed astute literary criticism of single texts with the analysis of the circumstances of their production and reception these chapters offer excellent possibilities for understanding the complexity and cultural relevance of British travel writing

Granite ,1914 Encounters with Emotions Benno Gammerl,Philipp Nielsen,Margrit Pernau,2019-06-06

Spanning Europe Asia and the Pacific Encounters with Emotions investigates experiences of face to face transcultural encounters from the seventeenth century to the present and the emotional dynamics that helped to shape them Each of the case studies collected here investigates fascinating historiographical questions that arise from the study of emotion from the strategies people have used to interpret and understand each other s emotions to the roles that emotions have played in obstructing communication across cultural divides Together they explore the cultural aspects of nature as well as the bodily dimensions of nurture and trace the historical trajectories that shape our understandings of current cultural boundaries and effects of globalization

Travel Narratives in Translation, 1750-1830 Alison Martin,Susan Pickford,2013-05-07 This book examines how non fictional travel accounts were rewritten reshaped and reoriented in translation between 1750 and 1850 a period that saw a sudden surge in the genre s popularity It explores how these translations played a vital role in the transmission and circulation of knowledge about foreign peoples lands and customs in the Enlightenment and Romantic periods The collection makes an important contribution to travel writing studies by looking beyond metaphors of mobility and cultural transfer to focus specifically on what happens to travelogues in translation Chapters range from discussing essential differences between the original and translated text to relations between authors and translators from intra European narratives of Grand Tour travel to scientific voyages round the world and from established male travellers and translators to their historically less visible female counterparts Drawing on European travel writing in English French German Spanish and Portuguese the book charts how travelogues were selected for translation how they were reworked to acquire new aesthetic political or gendered identities and how they sometimes acquired a radically different character and content to meet the needs and expectations of an emergent international readership The contributors address aesthetic political and gendered aspects of travel writing in translation drawing productively on other disciplines and research areas that encompass aesthetics the history of science literary geography and the history of the book

Aristocratic Encounters Harry Liebersohn,2001-02-05 Aristocratic Encounters first published in 1999 relates how an aristocratic discourse on American Indians took shape in the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries Titled and educated French and German visitors to North America mindful of the French Revolution developed a new belief in their affinity with the warrior elites of Indian societies whom they viewed as fellow aristocrats The book includes chapters on major figures such as Chateaubriand and de

Tocqueville and on lesser often instructive travelers For European historians the book offers fresh evidence for the creation of a post Revolutionary aristocratic culture through overseas travel To the interdisciplinary audience of readers interested in colonial encounters it opens up a Romantic vision of aristocrats from two worlds struggling to defend their code of valor and honor in an age of democratic politics Aristocratic Encounters is a contribution to a burgeoning form of historical writing it moves across national boundaries to ask how Europeans understood cultures vastly different from their own Travel and

Margaret Jolly,Serge Tcherkézoff,Darrell Tryon,2009-07-01 This volume the result of ongoing collaborations between Australian and French anthropologists historians and linguists explores encounters between Pacific peoples and foreigners during the longue dur e of European exploration colonisation and settlement from the sixteenth century to the twentieth century It deploys the concept of encounter rather than the more common idea of first contact for several reasons Encounters with Europeans occurred in the context of extensive prior encounters and exchanges between Pacific peoples manifest in the distribution of languages and objects and in patterns of human settlement and movement The concept of encounter highlights the mutuality in such meetings of bodies and minds whereby preconceptions from both sides were brought into confrontation dialogue mutual influence and ultimately mutual transformation It stresses not so much prior visions of strangers or others but the contingencies in events of encounter and how senses other than vision were crucial in shaping reciprocal appraisals But a stress on mutual meanings and interdependent agencies in such cross cultural encounters should not occlude the tumultuous misunderstandings political contests and extreme violence which also characterised Indigenous European interactions over this period Narrating Cultural Encounter Arnab

Chatterjee,2021-10-27 This book interrogates and historicises eighteenth century British women writers responses to India through the novel and travel writing to bring out the polyvalent space arising out of their complex negotiation with the colonial discourse Though British women enjoyed their privileged racial status as the utilisers of colonial riches they articulated their voice of dissent when they faced the politics of subordination in their own society and identified them with the marginalised status of the colonised Indians This brings out the complicity and critique of the colonial discourse of British women writers and foregrounds their ambivalent responses to the colonial project This book provides detailed textual analysis of the works of Phebe Gibbes Elizabeth Hamilton Lady Morgan Jemima Kindersley and Eliza Fay through critical insights from the idea of the Enlightenment postcolonial theory and feminist thought It also foregrounds new perspectives to colonial discourse vis vis the representation of India by locating the dialogic strain within the British narratives about India
