Toward a Recovery of Nineteenth Century Farming Handbooks

While researching texts written about nineteenth century farming, I found a few authors who published books about the literature of nineteenth century farming, particularly agricultural journals, newspapers, pamphlets, and brochures. These authors often placed the farming literature they were studying into an historical context by discussing the important events in agriculture of the year in which the literature was published (see Demaree, for example). However, while these authors discuss journals, newspapers, pamphlets, and brochures, I could not find much discussion about another important source of farming knowledge: farming handbooks. My goal in this paper is to bring this source into the agricultural literature discussion by connecting three agricultural handbooks from the nineteenth century with nineteenth century agricultural history.

To achieve this goal, I have organized my paper into four main sections, two of which have sub-sections. In the first section, I provide an account of three important events in nineteenth century agricultural history: population and technological changes, the distribution of scientific new knowledge, and farming's influence on education. In the second section, I discuss three nineteenth century farming handbooks in connection with the important events described in the first section. I end my paper

Titles are centered and written in 12-point, Times New Roman font. The title is not bolded, underlined, or italicized.

The thesis statement usually is the last sentence of the introduction.

The thesis is a clear position that you will support and develop throughout your paper. This sentence guides or controls your paper.

MLA requires double-spacing throughout a document; do not single-space any part of the document.

The introductory paragraph, or introduction, should set the context for the rest of the paper. Tell your readers why you are writing and why your topic is important.

If your paper is long, you may want to write about how your paper is organized. This will help your readers follow your ideas.

Gifted and talented students and any student interested in pursuing a science major in college needs a rigorous program to prepare them while they are still in high school This book utilizes a format where the application of several disciplines science math and language arts principles are mandated Each lab concludes with either an essay or a detailed analysis of what happened and why it happened This format is based on the expectations of joining a university program or becoming an industrial science professional The ideal student lab report would be written in a lab research notebook and then the essay or final analysis is done on a word processor to allow for repeat editing and corrections The research notebook has all graph pages a title section and a place for the students and their assistants to sign and witness that exercise The basic mechanics of the lab report title purpose procedure diagrams data table math and calculations observations and graphs are handwritten into the book The conclusion is done on a word processor MS Word which allows the instructor to guide the student in writing and editing a complete essay using the MLA format When the final copy is completed the essay is printed and inserted into the lab notebook for grading At the end of the term the student has all their labs in one place for future reference These lab notebooks can be obtained for as little as 3 00 per book This is money well spent In our district the Board of Education buys the books for each student The BOE sees these books as expendable but necessary materials for all science and engineering instruction
