

ENDOCRINE SYSTEM

Endocrine System: WORKING TOGETHER

Each organ system works on other systems within the body to do its "job". See below to learn just some of the ways that the endocrine system interacts with other organ systems.

Nervous System

Circulatory System

Endocrine System: FACTS

Endocrine System: PROBLEMS

Most of the time, the endocrine system works perfectly well. However, sometimes problems can arise.

Diabetes

Diabetes is a condition that causes high blood glucose (sugar) levels. It is caused by the body being unable to either produce or use the hormone insulin. So, the glucose (sugar) gets stuck in the blood. Symptoms include increased thirst, weight gain, changes in vision, frequent urination, increased hunger, moodiness or tingling in the hands.

Endocrine System: KEY TERMS

Term	Definition
Endocrine System	Network of endocrine glands that make, store, and release hormones.
Hormones	Chemical messengers that carry information and instructions from one cell to another.

Endocrine System: HORMONES

Hormones are chemical signals. Hormones are released by a gland into the bloodstream. They travel through the bloodstream and bind to target cells, which then respond to the hormone. Hormones can affect many different parts of the body. They can affect the way cells work, the way cells grow, and the way cells divide.

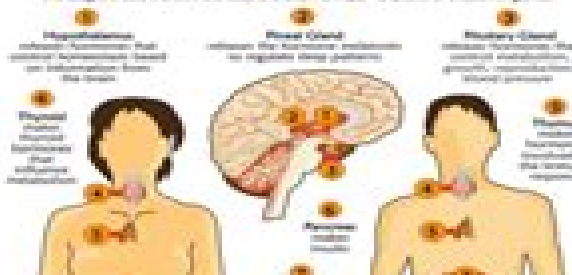

Endocrine System: FIGHT-OR-FLIGHT

The fight-or-flight response is a reaction that occurs in the body when you are really frightened. The body's fight-or-flight response is the body's way of reacting to a dangerous situation. When you feel scared, your body releases hormones that make you feel alert and ready to fight or run away. These hormones also make your heart beat faster and your breathing deeper. This helps you to react quickly to a dangerous situation.

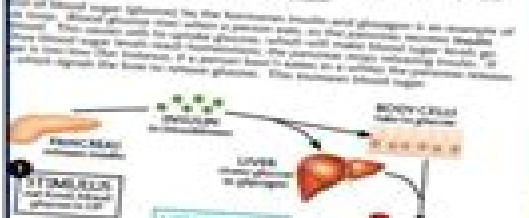

Endocrine System: GLANDS

A gland is a structure that produces and releases substances that perform a specific function in the body. There are many different types of glands in the body. Some glands release hormones, while others release enzymes or other substances. Glands are part of the endocrine system. Some glands are part of the digestive system, while others are part of the reproductive system. Some glands are part of the immune system, while others are part of the circulatory system.

Endocrine System: FEEDBACK LOOPS

Endocrine activities are regulated by complex feedback loops. These feedback loops help the body maintain a stable internal environment. When a hormone level is too high or too low, the body releases a signal that tells the gland to stop or start producing the hormone. This signal is called a feedback loop. The feedback loop helps the body to maintain a stable internal environment.
