The Greek God of love was the child of Aphrodite and Ares, and his name Eros means "desire". His arrow strikes the heart of his victims and, as Hesiod mentions, "he loosened the limbs and weakens the mind".

At the Brink of Infinity James E. von der Heydt,2008-04 From popular culture to politics to classic novels quintessentially American texts take their inspiration from the idea of infinity In the extraordinary literary century inaugurated by Ralph Waldo Emerson the lyric too seemed to encounter possibilities as limitless as the U S imagination This raises the question What happens when boundlessness is more than just a figure of speech Exploring new horizons is one thing but actually looking at the horizon itself is something altogether different In this carefully crafted analysis James von der Heydt shines a new light on the lyric craft of Emily Dickinson Robert Frost Elizabeth Bishop and James Merrill and considers how their seascape vision redefines poetry s purpose Emerson famously freed U S literature from its past and opened it up to vastness in the following century a succession of brilliant rigorous poets took the philosophical challenges of such freedom all too seriously Facing the unmarked horizon Emersonian poets capture and are captured by a stark astringent version of human beauty Their uncompromising visions of limitlessness reclaim infinity s proper legacy and give American poetry its edge Von der Heydt s book recovers the mystery of their world Professional Windows 8

physical composition or temporal stages that there is in God no distinction between essence and existence that there is no partitioning of God's mental life into beliefs desires and intentions God is thus a spiritual eternal being dependent on nothing else whose essence is to exist and whose mode of existence is identical with omniscience omnipotence and perfectly goodness In metaphysical contrast the world is a spatial matrix populated most conspicuously by finite physical objects whose careers proceed sequentially from past to present to future Mann defends a view according to which the world was created out of nothing and is sustained in existence from moment to moment by God The differences in metaphysical status between creator and creatures raise questions for which Mann suggests answers How can God know contingent facts and necessary truths without depending on them Why is it so easy to overlook God's presence Why would self sufficient God create anything Wouldn't a perfect God create the best world possible Can God be free Can we be free if God's power is continuously necessary to sustain us in existence If God does sustain us is God an accomplice whenever we sin Mann responds to the Euthyphro dilemma by arguing for a kind of divine command metaethical theory whose normative content lays emphasis on love Given the metaphysical differences between us how can there be loving relationships between God and creatures Mann responds by examining the notions of piety and hope
