

MLA In-Text Citations

An in-text citation is a brief reference in your text that indicates the source you used.

It should direct readers to the entry in your works-cited list for that source.

It should be unobtrusive: provide the citation information without interrupting your own text.

Generally author's last name (or abbreviated title) with a page number, enclosed in parentheses.

APA In-Text Citations

Sources must include the author and year

Approximately two decades ago, the notion of violence against women and prevention techniques were unpopular (Graffunder, Noonan, Cox, & Wheaton, 2004). (Paraphrased)

According to Burnette (2015), indigenous women are more than two times more likely to experience physical and sexual violence from a partner than women in the dominant population. (Paraphrased)

Some factors that deterred indigenous women from seeking help were "a lack of standardized protocol, jurisdictional confusion, delayed intervention, nonprosecution, police discretion, mistrust and breaches in confidentiality" (Burnette, 2015, p 122). (Quoted)

When citing an electronic document, whenever possible, cite it in the author-date style. If the electronic source lacks page numbers, locate and identify paragraph number/paragraph heading.

Websites for Busy Teachers (Must-See Websites), Understanding Human Information Behavior Beth St. Jean, Ursula Gorham, Elizabeth Bonsignore, 2021-03-25. This introductory textbook aims to provide undergraduate students in information science and related disciplines with an applied grounding in information behavior. The book's primary focus is to provide explicit links between information behavior and the careers that students will pursue within the information professions. With a deeper understanding of information behavior, students will be better equipped to address the many types of barriers that frequently prevent people from effectively and efficiently accessing, understanding, managing, and/or using the information they need in the real world. The first six chapters of the book provide students with the fundamental building blocks of information behavior; introduce them to important related concepts; and provide a deep dive into information literacy, digital literacy, the digital divide, and digital inclusion. Chapters 7 through 12 introduce students to the scholarly communication system, providing guidance on how to find, read, and critically evaluate information behavior studies. Also explored in these chapters are the various methods used to investigate and understand people's information behaviors. Topics covered include research design, research methods, research ethics, user needs assessment, and human-computer interaction and associated design methods. This part of the book also covers some of the major information behavior models and theories that have been developed to describe, predict, and/or explain people's information behaviors. In chapters 13 through 16, the authors provide an in-depth look into their own information behavior research areas, including consumer health information behavior and health justice, youth information behavior, legal information behavior, and access to justice, and information behavior in libraries. In the final chapter, students are first introduced to a wide range of careers within the information professions and then taken along on a deep dive into 10 specific jobs, with a special focus on the thread of information behavior that pervades the roles and responsibilities commonly associated with these positions. Each chapter begins with one or more scenarios illustrating concepts covered in the chapter and ends with discussion questions. Malley and Ames Hawkins saw very similar very exciting things happening in our classrooms using ethnographic research methods in our inquiry based first year writing classrooms We have watched our students develop strong voices as writers while also using critical analytical skills and addressing important ideas of ethics identity and representation In our classrooms we have seen a greater level of investment in ethnographic projects than we have seen in more traditional rhetorically based assignments Ethnographic writing by creating a very authentic role for the researcher and a connection to community offers a means to address the alienation and or boredom that many non traditional writers and first year college students feel when confronted with the traditional composition curriculum any curriculum actually More importantly ethnographic research allows students to access what can seem so terribly difficult when framed in other assignments to pursue a line of inquiry rather than a topic to research ethically and to write with authority Though we initially wrote this text with the first year writing classroom in mind we have come to understand that there are many courses that also present students with ethnographic writing assignments These courses may or may not be designed to spend much time on the question of how to get started with these projects In addition instructors might want to supplement the basic methodological approach with their own course content We are also aware that textbook size and cost has exploded in recent years We believe in preserving the internet as an open source space and wish to reinforce our belief with practice As a result of these realizations we have reorganized the project in order to 1 Make it relevant and accessible to students in nearly any college classroom who might be assigned an ethnographic writing project 2 Allow instructors to supplement the core methodology presented here in Chapters 1 6 as they see fit using any number of Supplemental Modules that offer additional materials lenses and multi modal examples of and for issues and ideas discussed in the core text 3 Make it accessible and available via the internet and other technological platforms to students and instructors everywhere A disclaimer we want to make clear that while we use and invoke methodological principles and practices associated with ethnography we are not claiming Engaging Communities as a text that teaches ethnography as a research methodology This book has been designed to help students most likely undergraduates perhaps high school possibly graduates envision interesting hands on research projects that are eventually converted translated into written text Throughout the text we often use the word ethnographic in order to describe our methodological presentation and theoretical concerns as this term reflects the pedagogical teaching and rhetorical arguing concerns of ethnography rather than the actual disciplinary understanding of the methodology We choose to use to teach this way because ethnographic writing allows for specific discussion regarding how to involve and interest a reader in evoking physical and emotional connection with writing rather than simply becoming informed or persuaded by any specific piece of writing Back cover
