Stone, 2018-02-01 Information technology has had a profound effect on almost every aspect of our lives including the way we purchase products communicate with others receive health care services and deliver education and training It has also had a major impact on human resource management HR processes and it has transformed the way that we recruit select motivate and retain employees Gueutal Kavanagh Thite Johnson 2015 For example some estimates indicated that 100 % of large organizations now use web based recruiting Sierra Cedar 2016 2017 and over half of the training conducted in America is delivered using technology based methods American Society for Training and Development 2015 Results of a survey by the Society for Human Resource Management SHRM 2002 revealed that technology is one of the major drivers of change in today s HR departments In spite of the increased use of technology in the field of HR relatively little research has examined the acceptance and effectiveness of electronic human resource management eHRM methods As a consequence practitioners are implementing these new systems without the benefit of research Thus the primary purpose of this issue is to review the results of research on a number of important eHRM practices including e recruitment e selection gamification e socialization e learning and e performance management It also considers how technology can be used to manage task based contingent workers and examines the problems associated with cyberdeviance in organizations The chapters in this series should be extremely beneficial for HR researchers and practitioners who are employing these new systems

Be the Change Linda Darling-Hammond, Nicole Ramos-Beban, Rebecca Padnos Altamirano, Maria E. Hyler, 2016-01-03 Be the Change tells the remarkable story of an innovative public high school launched by dedicated teachers in East Palo Alto California one of a growing number of low income communities starved of the resources needed to serve its students and schools Chronicling a rags to riches story of how two very different communities came together to change the historical trajectory of educational failure that had robbed so many students of their futures. Be the Change demonstrates how to plant the seeds of new possibilities in its place. The school's unique design modeled after successful small schools in New York City offers authentic and engaging instruction in a personalized setting that has allowed students who start off far behind to graduate and go on to college in record numbers. Each chapter examines one of the critical elements the teachers found essential to enable student success: the creation of an academic culture, the development of high standards with high supports, and the process of learning to teach so that students can learn. A powerful and compelling tale about how educators, parents, and representatives of one of America's most powerful universities came together to create a school that is now a beacon of pride and hope. Their struggle to overcome the obstacles they encountered along the way will inspire others who seek to find ways to use education as a means to break the cycle of poverty and to expand opportunity and justice. Pedro A. Noguera, distinguished professor of education, Graduate School of Education and Information Sciences, UCLA. This is the story of a little school that could. Could get students to college and beyond. That is. It's filled with evidence, quotes, and anecdotes, but more importantly, it demonstrates that will and skill aligned with vision and values results in learning environments in which students thrive. While acknowledging the challenges, trials, and tribulations of creating and leading an urban high school, the authors share their success in a passionate and compelling way, inviting others to learn alongside them as they build successful futures for their students. Douglas Fisher, professor of educational leadership, San Diego State University. With demanding academics, loving support, and genuine affirmation, the staff, parents, community members, and other supporters of EPAA, as well as Stanford faculty and staff, present an encouraging picture of the kind of high school all young people deserve. This kind of success is not easy, but in describing how it can be done, Linda Darling-Hammond and her co-authors have provided a stirring example for all of those interested in equity and hope for our public schools. Sonia Nieto, professor emerita, Language, Literacy, and Culture, College of Education, University of Massachusetts Amherst.

Education for Knowing Paul A. Wagner, Frank K.

Fair,2020-10-30 If our goal is Education for Knowing as the title says then we need to be guided by a conception of what knowing is For example we can all agree that there are math facts that students need to learn and we can agree that there are general concepts and laws that students should be acquainted with But is there more involved perhaps something like nurturing in students a desire to probe deeper into the workings of thing Or developing a capacity to explain why things work the way they do Our conceptions of what genuine knowing is serve as guides to what we think the goal of education is and they tell us how to build a student However as it turns out there are multiple conceptions of what knowing truly involves and these conceptions tend to be different for different sets of education stakeholders such as parents and their children school administrators and educational researchers Understanding this diversity of conceptions of knowing will make it easier for representatives of the different stakeholder groups to work together to accomplish the goal of building knowing students
