

Gene Expression—Transcription

How is mRNA synthesized and what message does it carry?

Why?

DNA is often referred to as a genetic blueprint. In the same way that blueprints contain the instructions for construction of a building, the DNA found inside the nuclei of cells contains the instructions for assembling a living organism. The DNA blueprint carries its instructions in the form of genes. In most cases the genes direct the production of a polypeptide, from which other more complex proteins, such as enzymes or hormones, may be constructed. These polypeptides and other molecules run the organism's metabolism and, in multicellular organisms, dictate what each cell's job is. So, what is the language of these instructions and how are they read and decoded by the cellular organelles? This activity will focus on the decoding of genes in eukaryotes.

Translational Control of Gene Expression Nahum Sonenberg, John

W. B. Hershey, Michael Mathews, 2000 There is fresh interest in protein synthesis and recognition of the key role of translational control mechanisms in regulating gene expression This new monograph updates and expands the scope of the 1996 publication Translational Control but it also takes a fresh look at the field In a new format the first eight chapters provide broad overviews while each of the additional twenty eight has a focus on a research topic of more specific interest The result is a thoroughly up to date account of initiation elongation and termination of translation control mechanisms in development in response to extracellular stimuli and the effects on the translational machinery of virus infection and disease

This book is essential reading for students entering the field and an invaluable resource for investigators of gene expression and its control

The Importance Of Iron In Pathophysiologic Conditions Raffaella Gozzelino, Paolo Arosio, 2015-06-09

The iron element Fe is strictly required for the survival of most forms of life including bacteria plants and humans Fine tuned regulatory mechanisms for Fe absorption mobilization and recycling operate to maintain Fe homeostasis the disruption of which leads to Fe overload or Fe depletion Whereas the deleterious effect of Fe deficiency relies on reduced oxygen transport and diminished activity of Fe dependent enzymes the cytotoxicity induced by Fe overload is due to the ability of this metal to act as a pro oxidant and catalyze the formation of highly reactive hydroxyl radicals via the Fenton chemistry This results in unfettered oxidative stress generation that by inducing protein lipid and DNA oxidation leads to Fe mediated programmed cell death and organ dysfunction Major and systemic Fe overloads occurring in hemochromatosis and Fe loading anemias have been extensively studied However localized tissue Fe overload was recently associated to a variety of pathologies such as infection inflammation cancer cardiovascular and neurodegenerative disorders In keeping with the existence of cross regulatory interactions between Fe homeostasis and the pathophysiology of these diseases further investigations on the mechanisms that provide cellular and systemic adaptation to tissue Fe overload are instrumental for future therapeutic approaches Thus we encourage our colleagues to submit original research papers reviews perspectives methods and technology reports to contribute their findings to a current state of the art on a comprehensive overview of the importance of iron metabolism in pathophysiologic conditions
