homemaking in relation to transnational migration and diaspora Each chapter includes illustrative examples from diverse geographical contexts and historical time periods Chapters also address some of the key cross cutting dimensions of home across these scales including digital connectivity art and performance more than human constructions of home and violence and dispossession The book ends with a research agenda for home in a world of COVID 19 The book provides an understanding of home that has three intersecting dimensions that material and imaginative geographies of home are closely intertwined that home power and identity are intimately linked and that geographies of home are multi scalar This framework the examples used to illustrate it and the intended audience of academics and students across the humanities and social sciences will together shape the field of home studies into the future

The Coup and the Palm Trees Andrés León Araya,2023-10-01 If they are going to kill us anyway we might as well die in our lands With these words and a shrug of shoulders a leader of the Unified Peasant Movement of the Agu n MUCA explains their decision to occupy more than 20 000 hectares of oil palm plantations in the Bajo Agu n region in Northern Honduras after the military coup that ousted President Manuel Zelaya on June 28 2009 The Coup under the Palm Trees interrogates the Honduran present through an exploration of the country's spatiotemporal trajectory of agrarian change since the mid twentieth century. It tells the double history of how the Aguán region went from a set of empty lands to the centerpiece of the country's agrarian reform in the 1980s and a central site for the palm oil industry and drug trade while a militarized process of state formation took place between the coups of 1963 and 2009. Rather than a case of failed democratic transition, the book shows how the current Honduran crisis exemplified by massive outmigration towards the United States, blatant narco state links, and the 2009 coup is better understood within longer historical processes in which violence, exclusion, and dispossession became the central organizational principles of the state.
