

			Provide each student with a subtraction problem and a specific strategy (e.g., counting back, compensation). Students pair up and solve each other's problems using the assigned strategy. After solving the problems, pairs discuss the strategies used and how effective they were.
WP2 Day 4	Reflecting on the Role of Strategies and Calculators in Subtraction	Students will reflect on when to use mental strategies and calculators for subtraction problems.	Discuss different situations in which using mental strategies for subtraction is appropriate and effective. Compare and contrast mental strategies with using calculators for subtraction. Present a variety of subtraction problems and have students determine which approach (mental or calculator) is most suitable for each problem. Online Resource: "Using Mental Strategies and Calculators for Subtraction" by Math Playground https://www.mathplayground.com/ThinkingBlocks.html Activity: "Strategies Showdown" Similar to the "Strategy Showdown" game from the Addition lessons (see Day 3 of Week 1), but applied to subtraction problems. Divide the class into teams and present a series of subtraction problems to the teams. Each team must discuss and decide on the most efficient strategy to solve each problem. After a time limit, teams present their solutions and strategies, and the class votes on the most effective strategy for each problem.
