Capitalism for the Twenty-First Century Jane Gleeson-White,2015-02-25 A timely and fascinating account of the revolution going on in the world of finance from the acclaimed author of Double Entry This is the story of a twenty first century revolution being led by the most unlikely of rebels accountants Only the second revolution in accounting since double entry bookkeeping began it is of seismic proportions driven by the 2008 financial crash and our ongoing environmental crisis The changes it will wreak are profound and far reaching and not only will transform the way the world does business but also will alter the nature of capitalism While the wealth of nations and corporations has been vital to the global economy increasingly the world is coming to realize that such endless growth is limited by the earth s resources and comes at a huge price to the planet and to human well being It simply cannot be sustained This revolution demands that we go beyond merely accounting for traditional financial and industrial capital and take account of the benefits and detriments to the natural world and society It urges us to include four new categories of wealth intellectual such as intellectual property human skills productivity and health social and relationship shared norms and values and natural environment Making them part of our financial statements and GDP figures may be the only way to address the many calamities we face Just two years ago this revolution seemed idealistic and unlikely Today it is quickly unfolding In 2012 the sea change year two key initiatives took root an international movement to transform how corporate accounting is calculated and the rise of incorporating the effects on the environment to the accounting of national and global economies Six Capitals tells the story of this coming new age in capitalism evaluating its promise and the disaster that lies ahead if it is not implemented Must Inclusion be Special?

Jonathan Rix, 2015-06-05 Must Inclusion be Special examines the discord between special and inclusive education and why this discord can only be resolved when wider inequalities within mainstream education are confronted It calls for a shift in our approach to provision from seeing it as a conglomeration of individualised needs to identifying it as a conglomeration of collective needs The author examines the political medical and cultural tendency of current times to focus upon the individual and contrasts this with the necessity to focus on context This book distinguishes the theoretical perspectives that are often associated with special or inclusive education and the broad range of interests which depend upon their ongoing development This examination leads to a problematisation of mainstream education provision our understanding of why social inequities emerge and how additional support can overcome these inequities Further chapters explore the underlying challenges which emerge from our use and understanding of the notions of special and inclusive outlining an alternative approach based upon a community of provision This approach recognises the interconnectedness of services and the significance of context and it encapsulates the aspiration of much international legislation for participation and inclusion for all But it also assumes that we tend towards diffuse practices services policies settings and roles spread across provision which is variously inclusive and exclusionary In seeking to create equitable participation for all support needs to shift its focus from the individual to this diffuse network of contexts Must Inclusion be Special emerges from the research base which problematises inclusion and special education drawing upon examples from many countries It also refers to the author's research into pedagogy language and policy and his experiences as a teacher and the parent of a child identified with special educational needs Validating Technological Innovation

David Coniam, Peter Falvey, 2016-04-02 This book discusses Hong Kong's use of onscreen marking OSM in public examinations Given that Hong Kong leads the way in OSM innovation this book has arisen from a recognised need to provide a comprehensive coherent account of the findings of various separate but linked validation studies of onscreen public examinations in Hong Kong The authors discuss their experience of the validation process demonstrating how high stakes innovation should be fully validated by a series of research studies in order
