METROID PRIME™ 3: CORRUPTION

Six months have passed since the events on the planet Aether. A serious situation is unfolding within the Federation. The Galactic Federation's computer network, which is made up of organic supercomputers known as Aurora Units, has suddenly and completely become corrupted with something like a virus.

The network is shut down, and during the investigation of the cause, it becomes clear that the situation is larger than this isolated incident.

About four months ago, the Federation spaceship Volhalla was attacked by Space Pirates and went missing, and the Aurora Unit 212 on board the Volhalla was taken. The virus was transmitted from this Aurora Unit, infecting other Aurora Units one by one.

If the Space Pirates attack while the network is down, the Federation will take considerable damage. To restore the network as quickly as possible, the Federation urgently assembles bounty hunters on the Federation flagship Olympus.

While the situation is being explained to the bounty hunters, the Federation is viciously assaulted by the dreaded Space Pirates. Samus and the bounty hunters who were headed to the planet Bionis must protect the Federation base, which appears to be the main target. They know that an object like a giant meteor, called a Leviathan, is coming to the planet. If the Leviathan hits, Bionis will be destroyed.

To avoid this danger, Samus and the bounty hunters must fight to restore the Federation's defense system that has been shut down by the pirates.

To top things off, the agent behind the attack is Dark Samus, thought to have been killed by Samus on planet Aether...
