Christians and Muslims in Early Islamic Egypt Lajos Berkes, 2022-01-10 This volume collects studies exploring the relationship of Christians and Muslims in everyday life in Early Islamic Egypt 642-10th c focusing mainly but not exclusively on administrative and social history. The contributions concentrate on the papyrological documentation preserved in Greek, Coptic and Arabic. By doing so, this book transcends traditional disciplinary boundaries and offers results based on a holistic view of the documentary material. The articles of this volume discuss various aspects of change and continuity from Byzantine to Islamic Egypt and offer also the re-edition of 23 papyrus documents in Greek, Coptic and Arabic. The authors provide a showcase of recent papyrological research on this under-studied but dynamically evolving field. After an introduction by the editor of the volume that outlines the most important trends and developments of the period, the first two essays shed light on Egypt as part of the Caliphate. The following six articles, the bulk of the volume, deal with the interaction and involvement of the Egyptian population with the new Muslim administrative apparatus. The last three studies of the volume focus on naming practices and language change.

Artificial Neural Networks as Models of Neural Information Processing Marcel van Gerven, Sander Bohte, 2018-02-01 Modern neural networks gave rise to major breakthroughs in several research areas. In neuroscience, we are witnessing a reappraisal of neural network theory and its relevance for understanding information processing in biological systems. The research presented in this book provides various perspectives on the use of artificial neural networks as models of neural information processing. We consider the biological plausibility of neural networks, performance improvements, spiking neural networks, and the use of neural networks for understanding brain function.

Code-switching with the Gods Edward O. D. Love, 2016-10-24 This volume provides the first comprehensive text edition of the Egyptian language sections of P. Bibliothèque Nationale Supplément Grec 574, PGM IV, and analysis of their script, language, and the bilingual spells which they are part of. The magical practices preserved in the PDM and PGM have been published for nearly a century, yet it is only recently that research has focused on investigating the complex relationship between the languages, scripts, and religious traditions they exhibit, as well as the question of who composed, copied, and practiced these spells. Focusing on the bilingual divinatory spells and exorcism of PGM IV, written in the Egyptian and Greek languages and rendered in Old Coptic scripts and the Greek script respectively, this volume analyses their textual content and ritual mechanics contextualised among the PDM and PGM and investigates the potential identities of the magical practitioners of late Roman and Late Antique Egypt. Encompassing the disciplines of Egyptology, Coptology, Papyrology, and Late Antique studies, this volume focuses in particular on the themes of magical practice, bilingualism, script, and the social context of magic in Egypt during the 2nd to 4th centuries CE.

Molecular Genetics of Axial Patterning, Growth and Disease in Drosophila Eye Amit Singh, Madhuri Kango-Singh, 2020-05-18 Drosophila melanogaster fruit fly is a highly versatile model with a genetic legacy of more than a century It provides powerful genetic cellular biochemical and molecular biology tools to address many questions extending from basic biology to human diseases One of the most important questions in biology is how a multi cellular organism develops from a single celled embryo The discovery of the genes responsible for pattern formation has helped refine this question and has led to other questions such as the role of various genetic and cell biological pathways in regulating the process of pattern formation and growth during organogenesis The Drosophila eye model has been extensively used to study molecular genetic mechanisms involved in patterning and growth Since the genetic machinery involved in the Drosophila eye is similar to humans it has been used to model human diseases and homology to eyes in other taxa This updated second edition covers current progress in the study of molecular genetic mechanisms of pattern formation mutations in axial patterning genetic regulation of growth and more using the Drosophila eye as a model Baltimore City Directory
