

The European Championship 2000, Charleroi

The European Championship 2000 in Belgium hosted the infamous riot in Charleroi between mainly English and German hooligans. Long before the start of the tournament fears concerning riots involving English hooligans were expressed in media. The media had predictions about the likelihood of potential riots to occur between hooligan groups that were displayed in media. This was done by showing the police preparations of the hosting country, focusing on the measures in preventing and also dealing with potential outbreaks. This style of predictive reporting was the manifest of many newspapers and documentaries prior to the European Championship 2000, where they more often than not exaggerated the potential problems of outbreaks, rather than underplaying them.³⁰ Just before the kick-off of the European Championship 2000 The Sun warned alarmingly for eventual trouble in Belgium, by presenting the headline; “Countdown to Another Nightmare”³¹. They alleged that an army of 1000 English fans was heading for European Championship 2000 to cause “bloodshed”.³²

As media predicted, riots occurred during the European Championship 2000. Most of them were reported from Charleroi, where mainly English and German fans thought each other. With the previous fear of trouble, the Belgian police had developed an arrest policy known as “administrative detention”, which meant that there really was no need for an offence to occur to get arrested. This produced arrests of people that did not commit any crime.³³

The general message from the media regarding the riots in Charleroi was in accordance with the headlines previously presented in this essay, namely that it was extravagant and sensationally horrific. However, I found an article from the Guardian giving a different recollection of the case. The author of the article claimed that the violence was more or less a product of media and police attention. “In Brussels, the Belgian police and the TV crews got what they wanted. Violence. Only the telly had the pictures of the Belgian police firing tear gas into pubs and arresting everyone inside, they had their story.”³⁴ The article continues saying that most people got arrested for practically just having a beer. “The real story of the
