

I WISH MY TEACHER KNEW: THE IMPACT OF PEER PRESSURE

Length: 30-45 minutes / Designed for 4th through 8th grade

Peer Pressure

Summary

According to 3rd grade teacher, Kyle Schwartz, "No significant learning occurs without a significant relationship." Significant relationships with students are built through classroom activities that build trust and provide them with an opportunity to communicate about important topics, such as peer pressure. Inspired by Ms. Schwartz's, I Wish My Teacher Knew exercise, this lesson provides students with an opportunity to share something they wish their teacher knew about peer pressure.

Beginning with a teacher-led discussion, students will engage in a whole-class conversation about peer pressure. Learning includes reflecting on times when they've been subjected to peer pressure, understanding how peer pressure impacts healthy decision making, identifying strategies to cope with peer pressure, and concludes with students independently sharing something they wish their teacher knew.

Objectives

Through this lesson, students will:

- Analyze the influence of family, peers, culture, media, technology, and other factors on healthy behaviors.
- Identify strategies to cope with peer pressure.
- Demonstrate the ability to use decision-making skills to make healthy decisions important to future success.
- Communicate through written and visual language.

Journal of Character Education

Jacques S. Benninga, Marvin W Berkowitz, 2016-06-01 The Journal of Character Education is the only professional journal in education devoted to character education. It is designed to cover the field from the latest research to applied best practices. We include original research reports, editorials, and conceptual articles by the best minds in our field; reviews of latest books; ideas and examples of the integration with character education of socio-emotional learning and other relevant strategies; and manuscripts by educators that describe best practices in teaching and learning related to character education. The Journal of Character Education has for over a decade been the sole scholarly journal focused on research, theory, measurement, and practice of character education. This issue includes four empirical articles, a practitioner's voice, and a book review. Topics covered in this issue include different approaches to character education in the classroom, e.g., using literature, narrative writing, how teachers promote character education, and how coaches may promote character development. Your Time to Shine: Planning Guide ,1988
