

Sequencing and Retell – The Mapping Model in Action

Lesson by a whole class

Learning Strategy Focus Comprehension Strategy: Sequencing OR	Retelling events in sequence of events
Rememberable Exit Question remember to tell? remember to tell? remember to tell?	Student keeps track of characters in story, remembering to tell about
Modeling Is what we're understanding or our thinking as a student?	When I read I keep track of what comes next in story. This is what the sequencing of events. I put the things that happen in the right order.
Charting How do you know what's next?	Good readers remember the order of things that happen in stories. List the things that are next (and their characteristics) of your character.
Sequencing Using pictures, write the order of the learning level and your thinking?	Pre-Reading	Students take in information because it is. When the student reads they are most comfortable with the story.
	During Reading	• Use the for sequencing pictures to predict what character will be next. • Collect the character's "on your finger" and then describe events for each character in order. • Complete questions are: 1. What is coming next and why? Try your question. 2. Follow your picture the next character and all the characters in the and their describing word. 3. What story next "up". How what might happen? Tell.
Classroom/ Home How will you pull the lesson together with the next character? How do what they have learned? How do you know what's next?	• Review the story sequence. • Review the whole story to your partner. Use your fingers to keep track of the characters. If it will help you remember the sequence of events. • Select a student to give a retell of the whole story. • Can student and tell a family member the whole story after school today.
