

Letter To My Senior Self

Write a letter to yourself as a senior in high school. In narrative form, I am asking that you write a letter to yourself that you will open when you graduate high school. I want you to capture a portrait of who you are now along with your goals for the future.

Some ideas of things that you could include:

- preparation for the first day
- impressions of classes and teachers
- extracurricular activities that you are involved in or that you want to get involved in
- differences between this school and the middle school

When you conclude your letter, I want you to predict what you want your legacy to be when you graduate. What do you hope to accomplish here? Will it be mostly personal accomplishments, or do you hope to make a difference to the school community? I realize this is the most difficult part of the assignment, but I'm hoping it will be fun for you as a senior to look back at your freshman self and see what you were like and how you have grown as a person.

In your writing, you want to make sure that you are being specific and writing with detail. Include sensory images and figurative language.

The Double Fyodor Dostoevsky, 2009-01-16 With keen psychological insight far ahead of its time leading to wide misinterpretation among critics upon its first publication in 1846 Dostoevsky's second novel is now recognized as one of his most important works and one that inspired literally hundreds of imitations Unhappy with the negative reception for The Double Dostoevsky re-wrote his original version of 1846 fifteen years later Dostoevsky wrote This revision provided with an introduction will be the equivalent of a new novel They will finally see what The Double is In a word I'm challenging everybody to a battle Why should I lose a superb idea a great type in its social importance which I was the first to discover and of which I was the herald

Reading Sima Qian from Han to Song Esther S. Klein, 2019-03-27 In Father of Chinese History Esther Klein explores the life and work of the great Han dynasty historian Sima Qian as seen by readers from the Han to the Song dynasties Today Sima Qian is viewed as both a tragic hero and a literary genius Premodern responses to him were more equivocal the complex personal emotions he expressed prompted readers to worry about whether his work as a historian was morally or politically acceptable Klein demonstrates how controversies over the value and meaning of Sima Qian's work are intimately bound up with larger questions How should history be written What role does individual experience and self-expression play within that process By what standards can the historian's choices be judged
