

MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our mother, Betty Jane Wills, who passed away one year ago, Dec. 18, 1951. We never knew what pain she had, We did not see her die; We only know she passed away, And never said goodbye. Someday, sometime we'll meet again, Someday, we know not when; We'll clasp her hand in that promised land, And never to part again.

Sadly missed by Patty Sue and Beverely Ann Wills.

MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our daughter and sister, Betty Jane Wills, who passed away Dec. 18, 1951. There is a beautiful garden in heaven,

No sorrow, no tears, no cares; I hope I shall enter the garden, And meet all my loved ones there. Her life is a beautiful memory, Her absence is a silent grief; She sleeps in God's beautiful garden,

In the sunshine of perfect peace. Of life's trials and troubles, She had more than her share; Yet bravely and patiently, These did she bear. Our hearts still ache, With grief and pain; God only knows it's true. We pray we'll meet again.

Sadly missed by mother and dad, Mr. and Mrs. Ora L. Weekley, and Brothers and Families.

The Architect and Building News ,1929 The Building News and Engineering Journal ,1924 Granite Marble & Bronze ,1918 Quality and relevance of research and related activities at the Gorgas Memorial Laboratory. , Forgotten Veterans, Invisible Memorials Allison S. Finkelstein,2021-08-10 Investigates the groundbreaking role American women played in commemorating those who served and sacrificed in World War I In Forgotten Veterans Invisible Memorials How American Women Commemorated the Great War 1917 1945 Allison S Finkelstein argues that American women activists considered their own community service and veteran advocacy to be forms of commemoration just as significant and effective as other more traditional forms of commemoration such as memorials Finkelstein employs the term veteranism to describe these women s overarching philosophy that supporting aiding and caring for those who served needed to be a chief concern of American citizens civic groups and the government in the war s aftermath However these women did not express their views solely through their support for veterans of a military service narrowly defined as a group predominantly composed of men and just a few women Rather they defined anyone who served or sacrificed during the war including women like themselves as veterans These women veteranists believed that memorialization projects that centered on the people who served and sacrificed was the most appropriate type of postwar commemoration They passionately advocated for memorials that could help living veterans and the families of deceased service members at a time when postwar monument construction surged at home and abroad Finkelstein argues that by rejecting or adapting traditional monuments or by embracing aspects of the living memorial building movement female veteranists placed the plight of all veterans at the center of their commemoration efforts Their projects included diverse acts of service and advocacy on behalf of people they considered veterans and their families as they pushed to infuse American memorial traditions with their philosophy In doing so these women pioneered a relatively new form of commemoration that impacted American practices of remembrance encouraging Americans to rethink their approach and provided new definitions of what constitutes a memorial In the process they shifted the course of American practices even though their memorialization methods did not achieve the widespread acceptance they had hoped it would Meticulously researched Forgotten Veterans Invisible Memorials utilizes little studied sources and reinterprets more familiar ones In addition to the words and records of the women themselves Finkelstein analyzes cultural landscapes and ephemeral projects to reconstruct the evidence of their influence Readers will come away with a better understanding of how American women supported the military from outside its ranks before they could fully serve from within principally through action based methods of commemoration that remain all the more relevant today

The Nanjing Massacre and the Making of Mediated Trauma

Hongtao Li, Shunming Huang, 2021-08-24 Drawing on cultural trauma theory this book investigates how collective memory of the Nanjing Massacre is fashioned in China and how the mass media political power and public praxis jointly shape the politics and culture of memory in contemporary China. Allowing for the dimensions of history and different mediating spaces, the authors first conduct textual analysis of news reports from traditional media since the event took place, revealing that the significance of the Massacre was initially portrayed as a local incident before its construction as a national trauma and finally a collective memory. In a study of physical and online memorial spaces including the Memorial Hall, commemorative activities on the Internet and new media platforms, the book unveils the production and reproduction of trauma narratives as well as how these narratives have been challenged. The final part further studies the interactions between media and other institutional settings while exploring issues of global memory and reconciliation in East Asia. The title will be an essential read for anyone interested in memory studies, media and communication and particularly the collective memory of the Nanjing Massacre.
