Expert Answer Key Word 2010 Session :

Psychological perspectives on expertise Guillermo Campitelli, Michael H Connors, Merim Bilalić, David Zachary Hambrick, 2015-05-19 Experts are persons who are very knowledgeable about or skillful in a particular area. The aim of this Research Topic is to advance knowledge in the understanding of the phenomenon of expertise by putting together different lines of research that directly or indirectly study expertise. Herbert Simon's expertise studies initiated two lines of research. One is interested in elucidating the cognitive processes underlying expertise and the other investigates how expertise develops. These lines of research started with studies comparing experts and novices in chess and then they extended to numerous areas of expertise such as music, medical diagnosis, sports, arts, and sciences. In the field of judgment and decision making, researchers investigate the quality of judgments and decisions of experts in different professions, e.g., clinical psychologists, medical practitioners, judges, meteorologists, stock brokers. Those lines of research explicitly investigate the topic of expertise, but there are other research areas that make a substantial contribution to understanding expertise. Scholars in language acquisition and in face perception, for example, investigate cognitive processes and development of expertise in areas in which almost everyone becomes an expert. Furthermore, skill acquisition research informs in detail about short-term cognitive changes that may be important to understand how expertise develops. We are interested in original research that advances knowledge in the understanding of decision-making cognitive processes and development of expertise in sports, intellectual games, arts, scientific disciplines, and professions, as well as expertise in cognitive abilities such as perception, memory, attention, language, and imagery. We are also interested in theoretical articles in any of these areas, articles that describe computational or mathematical models of expertise, and articles offering a framework that would guide expertise research. Articles that offer integrative approaches of some of the areas described above are strongly encouraged. The goal of this Research Topic is to produce a hallmark piece of work in the field of expertise which complements and does not overlap with the Neural implementations of expertise Research Topic in Frontiers in Human Neuroscience. Advances in science and risk assessment tools for Vibrio parahaemolyticus and V. vulnificus associated with seafood Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, World Health Organization, 2021-07-20 Globally, the Vibrio parahaemolyticus and Vibrio vulnificus represent important human pathogens associated with the consumption of seafood. In response to the requests for scientific advice from Codex Committee on Food Hygiene CCFH risk assessments for the pathogens V. vulnificus, V. cholerae, V. parahaemolyticus, and guidance on methods for the detection of Vibrio spp. with seafood have been conducted and published previously by JEMRA. In order to provide an update on the state of the art, advice regarding risk assessment for V. parahaemolyticus and V. vulnificus in seafood, an expert meeting was convened. Several critical developments in the last decade were subsequently noted by the expert working group: 1. The emergence of highly pathogenic strains; 2. In response to climate change, there has been a significant geographical spread regarding when and where these seafood associated Vibrio infections 3 Demographic considerations are very important 4 A range of new approaches for best practice and 5 A range of new methods such as those utilising genomics and satellite imagery This report describes the output of that expert meeting

Making Sense of Expertise Reiner Grundmann,2022-10-24 Current debates about experts are often polarized and based on mistaken assumptions with expertise either defended or denigrated Making Sense of Expertise instead proposes a conceptual framework for the study of expertise in order to facilitate a more nuanced understanding of the role of expertise in contemporary society Too often different meanings of experts and expertise are implied without making them explicit Grundmann s approach to expertise is based on a synthesis of approaches that exist in various fields of knowledge The book aims at dispelling much of the confusion by offering a comprehensive and rigorous framework for the study of expertise A series of in depth case studies drawn from contemporary issues including the climate crisis and the COVID 19 pandemic provide the empirical basis of the author s comprehensive approach This thought provoking book will be of great interests to students instructors and researchers in a range of fields in the humanities social sciences and science and technology studies

The FCO's Human Rights Work 2011 Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Foreign Affairs Committee,2012-10-17 It is inevitable that the UK will have strategic commercial or security related interests overseas which have the potential to conflict with its human rights work says the Foreign Affairs Committee in a report published today The Government should not be trying to assert that the two can co exist freely it should instead be explaining publicly its judgments on how to balance them in particular cases The Committee s recommendation comes in the light of the FCO s decision not to designate Bahrain as a country of concern in its 2011 report on its human rights work despite the repression of demonstrations in Bahrain in 2011 The Committee recommends that the criteria for designation should be based purely on assessments of human rights standards and should not be coloured by strategic or other considerations The Committee also challenges the Government for being inconsistent in not taking a public stance on the Bahrain Grand Prix but boycotting group stage games at Euro 2012 in Ukraine On rendition the Committee finds that the protracted police investigations had an unacceptable impact on the work of the Gibson Inquiry and of relevant committees The Government should explain why current investigations into claims of rendition made by two Libyans are expected to take so long The Committee accepts that enough progress has been made in Burma to justify some relaxation of the EU s sanctions regime but it says that Burma s human rights record remains seriously blemished It recommends that the UK should call for better access to those still detained as political prisoners and should press the Burmese authorities to allow independent observers to visit Rakhine state to assess the extent to which the rights of the Rohingya minority are being respected

Enhancing Intercultural Communication in Organizations Roos Beerkens,Emmanuelle Le Pichon-Vorstman,Roselinde Supheert,Jan Ten Thije,2020-06-01 This book provides a qualitative analysis of the process of consultancy to prove how intercultural communication can solve issues rising from multiculturalism in organizations and policymaking Experts in intercultural consultancy examine 12 different cases from real situations focusing on interviews with clients and the way advice is presented and discussed with them and on collected data and the process by which it is gathered The book proves how the mechanisms of intercultural communication can be used to foster respectful relationships between people of different cultural and linguistic backgrounds and contribute to the success of the project or organization in question This book will be a key resource for scholars and students involved in intercultural communication management and consultancy as well as professionals that are confronted in their work with diversity and would like to know more about intercultural consultancy Additional questions for discussion and readings are available as e resources on the Routledge Website Commerce, Justice, Science, and Related Agencies Appropriations for Fiscal
