Proceedings of Eurocogsci 03 Franz Schmalhofer, Richard M. Young, Graham Katz, Katz Graham, 2019-05-20 The aim of the European Cognitive Science Conference is the presentation of empirical theoretical and analytic work from all areas of interest in cognitive science such as artificial intelligence education linguistics neuroscience philosophy psychology and anthropology The focus is on interdisciplinary work that is either of interest for more than one of the research areas mentioned or integrates research methods from different fields With contributions by cognitive scientists from 20 different countries the papers in this volume reflect the origins of this conference as well as its international scope The Wiley Handbook on The Cognitive Neuroscience of Memory Donna Rose Addis, Morgan Barense, Audrey Duarte, 2015-03-03 The Wiley Handbook on the Cognitive Neuroscience of Memory presents a comprehensive overview of the latest cutting edge neuroscience research being done relating to the study of human memory and cognition Features the analysis of original data using cutting edge methods in cognitive neuroscience research Presents a conceptually accessible discussion of human memory research Includes contributions from authors that represent a who's who of human memory neuroscientists from the U S and abroad Supplemented with a variety of excellent and accessible diagrams to enhance comprehension On Autobiographical Memory Anita Kasabova, 2009-05-27 The aim of this book is to provide an account of autobiographical memory the memory of episodes in the subject's autobiography and to answer the following questions what happens when we remember something Why do we remember some things rather than others The main assumptions in this book are that autobiographical memory is an active structure of a representational nature and that autobiographical memory is a construct of the imagination enabled by a semantic principle the ground consequence relation Anita Kasabova reconstructs the epistemological accounts of memory by the Prague philosopher and mathematician Bernard Bolzano and the Prague physiologist Ewald Hering as well as the phenomenological accounts by Edmund Husserl and Roman Ingarden and discusses various accounts put forward within analytic philosophy She examines the trace theory and its relation to the phenomenology of autobiographical memory and the different temporal perspectives that characterize this form of memory Kasabova formulates a philosophical explication of how autobiographical memory works dealing with issues such as what are the defining features of autobiographical memory how is it structured and how does it function what is a recollection and what are the necessary and for the most part sufficient conditions for a recollection to occur Kasabova argues that such conditions are a sense of self and a sense of connectedness of the self that is semantic rather than causal the subject's sense of ownership of past experiences and the capacity of imagination for mental time travel and thinking about past episodes you have to be able to produce representations not bound to the current situation It is argued that access to the subject's personal past cannot occur otherwise than by construction in imagination In order to reproduce a past experience in the present imagination is necessary for representing a past episode as if it were present Other necessary conditions for

autobiographical memory are time awareness a continuous temporal reference frame a successive temporal order and the capacity to refer back to previous positions in time Finally semantic relations of part whole and ground consequence are crucial for explaining autobiographical memory It is argued that the part whole relation is the principle of the memory trace and that the grounding relation co ordinates the subject s perspective on past episodes in recollective statements Kasabova argues that autobiographical memory is basically semantic as it is grounded by and constructed through a sense making relation expressed by the explanatory conjunct because we recall certain experiences or actions rather than other because we are sensitive to the reasons for having experienced it The new book by Anita Kasabova fills a gap between traditional philosophical armchair speculations about memory and contemporary cognitive theories which have grown out of extensive experimental research The book s main idea that autobiographical memory is not a mere recollection but rather an active reconstruction of our past memories is not an entirely new one Anita Kasabova however provides a new take on this idea by revealing that the theories of Bolzano Hering and Husserl not only bear historical significance but properly reconstructed they might be viewed as an important contribution to the contemporary interdisciplinary studies of memory An appreciable achievement of the book is the chosen conceptual framework it makes the idiosyncratic language of Bolzano and Husserl accessible to contemporary cognitive scientists as well as making the recent cognitive theories understandable for the traditional philosophical scholars Even if this were the only achievement of Anita Kasabova and it is not it would represent her monograph as a book of a great merit for a large community of memory scholars Assoc Prof Lilia Gurova Department of Cognitive Science and Psychology New Bulgarian University

Entrenchment and the Psychology of Language Learning Hans-Jörg Schmid, 2016-12-19 In recent years linguists have increasingly turned to the cognitive sciences to broaden their investigation into the roots and development of language. With the advent of cognitive linguistic usage based and complex adaptive models of language, linguists today are utilizing approaches and insights from cognitive psychology, neuropsychology, social psychology and other related fields. A key result of this interdisciplinary approach is the concept of entrenchment: the ongoing reorganization and adaptation of communicative knowledge. Entrenchment posits that our linguistic knowledge is continuously refreshed and reorganized under the influence of social interactions. It is part of a larger ongoing process of lifelong cognitive reorganization whose course and quality is conditioned by exposure to and use of language and by the application of cognitive abilities and processes to language. This volume enlists more than two dozen experts in the fields of linguistics, psycholinguistics, neurology and cognitive psychology in providing a realistic picture of the psychological and linguistic foundations of language. Contributors examine the psychological foundations of linguistic entrenchment processes and the role of entrenchment in first language acquisition, second language learning and language attrition. Critical views of entrenchment and some of its premises and implications are discussed from the perspective of dynamic complexity theory and radical embodied cognitive science.

Language Learning, Discourse and Communication Weronika Szubko-Sitarek, Łukasz Salski, Piotr Stalmaszczyk, 2013-10-29 This volume brings together papers on a wide spectrum of topics within the broad area of language acquisition, stressing the interconnections between applied and theoretical linguistics as well as language research methodology. These contributions in honor of Professor Jan Majer have been grouped in two sections: language learning and discourse and communication. The former discusses issues varying from aspects of first, second and third language acquisition, individual learner differences (i.e. gender, attitudes, learning strategies) and second language research methodology to the analysis of features of learner spoken language, the role of feedback in foreign language instruction and the position of culture in EFL textbooks. The second part of the volume offers a theoretical counterbalance to the applied nature of the first one. Here the contributions touch upon spoken and written language analysis, language awareness and aspects of the English language; also selected issues of language philosophy are discussed. The wide range of topics covered in the publication, authored by specialists in their respective areas, reflects Professor Majer's academic interests and corresponds to the complex nature of the general field. The volume aims to portray

Music Perception Mari Riess Jones, Richard R. Fay, Arthur N. Popper, 2010-08-17 The Springer Handbook of Auditory Research presents a series of comprehensive and synthetic reviews of the fundamental topics in modern auditory research. The volumes are aimed at all individuals with interests in hearing research, including advanced graduate students, post-doctoral researchers and clinical investigators. The volumes are intended to introduce new investigators to important aspects of hearing science and to help established investigators to better understand the fundamental theories and data in fields of hearing that they may not normally follow closely. Each volume presents a particular topic comprehensively and each serves as a synthetic overview and guide to the literature. As such, the chapters present neither exhaustive data reviews nor original research that has not yet appeared in peer-reviewed journals. The volumes focus on topics that have developed a solid data and conceptual foundation rather than on those for which a literature is only beginning to develop. New research areas will be covered on a timely basis in the series as they begin to mature.

Audiovisual Translation in Applied Linguistics Laura Incalcaterra McLoughlin, Jennifer Lertola, Noa Talaván, 2020-11-15. In recent years interest in the application of audiovisual translation (AVT) techniques in language teaching has grown beyond unconnected case studies to create a lively network of methodological intertextuality, cross references, reviews, and continuation of previous trials ultimately defining a recognisable and scalable trend. Whilst the use of AVT as a support in language teaching is not new, this volume looks at a different application of AVT with learners involved in the audiovisual translation process itself performing tasks such as subtitling, dubbing, or audio describing. It therefore presents a sample of the current research in this field with particular reference to case studies that either have a large scale or international dimension or can be scaled and replicated in various contexts. It is our hope that these contributions will arouse the interest of publishers of language learning material and other stakeholders and ultimately lead to the mainstreaming of AVT in language education. Originally published as special issue of Translation and Translanguaging in Multilingual Contexts 4.1 (2018).

Mechanisms of Memory J. David Sweatt, 2009-09-28. This fully revised second edition provides the only unified synthesis of available information concerning the mechanisms of higher order memory formation. It spans the range from learning theory to human and animal behavioral learning models to cellular physiology and biochemistry. It is unique in its incorporation of chapters on memory disorders tying in these clinically important syndromes with the basic science of synaptic plasticity and memory mechanisms. It also covers cutting edge approaches such as the use of genetically engineered animals in studies of memory and memory diseases. Written in an engaging and easily readable style and extensively illustrated with many new full color figures to help explain key concepts, this book demystifies the complexities of memory and deepens the reader's understanding. More than 25% new content, particularly expanding the scope to include new findings in translational research. Unique in its depth of coverage of molecular and cellular mechanisms. Extensive cross referencing to Comprehensive Learning and Memory. Discusses clinically relevant memory disorders in the context of modern molecular research and includes numerous practical examples.

Foundations of Bilingual Memory Roberto R. Heredia, Jeanette Altarriba, 2013-11-22. Foundations of Bilingual Memory provides a valuable update to the field of bilingual memory and offers a new psychological perspective on how the bilingual mind encodes, stores, and retrieves information. This volume emphasizes theoretical issues such as classic memory approaches: Compound, Coordinate, Bilingualism, Bilingual Dual Coding Theory, and Working Memory, about which relatively little has been written in the bilingual domain. Also covered are: The neuropsychology of bilingual memory; Applied issues such as false memories and bilingualism, emotion and memory; Empirical findings in support of the uniqueness of the different memory systems of the bilingual individual; Connectionist models of bilingualism. The volume represents the first book of its kind in stressing a memory perspective with regards to bilingual speakers It can serve as an advanced text for both undergraduate and graduate level students and it will be of great interest to the growing number of bilingual teachers and university classes interested in understanding the bilingual mind as well as in preparing teachers to work with the bilingual individual
