

Natural Selection

LS4.B: Sometimes the differences in characteristics between individuals of the same species provide advantages in surviving, finding mates, and reproducing.

A herd of caribou is a population.

A population is any group of the same species that live in one place.

If one of the caribou's traits, such as longer legs, helps it escape predators a little better than others in the herd, it will live longer and have more offspring.

If a trait helps an animal survive, scientists call these adaptive traits.

Its helpful traits can be passed on to its offspring.

Scientists call traits that are passed on inheritable traits.

Over time, more of the caribou in the population will have these helpful traits.

Scientists call the increase of helpful traits in a population differential reproduction.

Changes in a population that help the group survive are examples of natural selection.
