

Chicago Style is a system that specifies how papers should be set up and how sources that are used in the paper should be referenced. This system is often used in history and art, and sometimes in music. It is recommended, however, that students ask their professors which format they require for research papers. This handout will follow the guidelines indicated in The Chicago Manual of Style (CMS), 16th edition, and Kate Turabian's A Manual for Writers of Research Papers, Theses, and Dissertations: Chicago Style for Students and Researchers, 7th edition.

General Formatting for Chicago Style:

- 8 1/2" x 11" paper
- Typed
- Double-spaced
- 1" margins on all sides
- Times New Roman font, size 10 or 12
- One space after the final punctuation of each sentence
- Number all pages, except the title page, in the upper right corner, starting with pg. 2. Some professors may want your last name before the page number.

Titles

- Titles of long works are italicized: books, journals, films, CD's, newspapers, plays, works of art, photographs, long musical compositions, television and radio programs, etc.
- Titles of short works go inside "quotation marks": articles, chapters, essays, short stories, poems, songs, etc.
- Capitalized only titles like general websites (e.g. CNN.com), book series, editions, broadcast networks and channels (e.g., The Learning Channel), and artistic works with unknown creators
- Use lowercase with parts of a book—foreword, preface, appendix, chapter, etc.

General Components of a Chicago Style paper:

- Title Page
- Text Pages – the body of the paper
- Footnotes/Endnotes –information about the author, content, copyright permissions, and tables, as well as citations for sources
- Bibliography/Works Cited – list of sources used in the paper
- Appendices – materials that is relevant to the paper's topic but that could be distracting if presented within the paper (e.g., charts, tests, questionnaires, interviews, etc.)
- Tables (see The Chicago Manual of Style for more information)
- Figures (see The Chicago Manual of Style for more information)

Title Page

The Chicago Manual of Style does not specify formatting for the title page of a research paper. The following information appears in the Turabian Manual. The title of the paper appears approximately 1/3 of the way down the page, center aligned. The student writer's name, the course number, the instructor's name, and the date appear in the lower 1/3 of the page, center aligned. Another option is for the writer's name to appear at the center of the page, separated from the course information. The title page is not numbered but is counted for numbering purposes (i.e., the first page of the text itself will be page 2).
