DEPARTMENT : LINGUISTICS, LANGUAGES AND LITERATURE UNIT CODE: ALI 805 UNIT TITLE: LITERATURE AND JOURNALISM TASK: Difference between Literature and Journalism PRESENTED BY: JULIE E. OGONYA REG. NO. : PG/MA/063/2009 PRESENTED TO: DR. KITCHE MAGAK DATE: NOVEMBER, 2009. MASENO INTRODUCTION Literature and journalism are two genres that are interrelated and intertwined because literature borrows heavily from journalism and journalism borrows heavily from literature as well. Sometimes it gets problematic distinguishing literature from journalism, more so with the emergence of narrative journalism.

According to Oxford Advanced Learners Dictionary, literature refers to pieces of writing that are valued as works of art, especially novels, plays and poems (in contrast to technical books and newspapers, magazines, etc.). The same dictionary defines journalism as the work of collecting and writing news stories for newspapers, magazines, radio or television. In this paper, an attempt is going to be made to show the differences between literature and journalism. Differences between Literature and Journalism.

The difference between literature and journalism can be seen from the definitions of the two genres where literature is defined as "pieces of writing that are valued as works of art". Art refers to "the use of imagination to express ideas or feelings" (Hornby, 2005). The key word is imagination. This means that in literature, language is used creatively with a lot of imagination in expressing ideas. Literature has been described as a mirror of the society and it reflects the happenings in that society. The reflections more often than not depend on the type of the mirror, whether concave or convex.

Consequently, literature can distort reality. Journalism, "the work of collecting and writing news stories for newspapers, magazines, radio or television", on the other hand, is a picture of the society. What we see is what we get since journalism is reportage. Mikkel Hvid has provided some guidelines on the difference between journalism and literature. In this paper most of the differences used will be from a paper he presented entitled Fiction, Facts and Storytelling and Roy Peter Clarke's essay : Between Fact and Fiction: Navigating Treacherous Waters.

First, Hvid says that "the difference between literature and journalism is characterized by more than just the difference between fact and fiction. The two genres have different expressions, different criteria for the truth and relevance and different priorities. Journalism must be true but writers of fiction are allowed to lie". In literature, the diction is characterized by the use of literary techniques like imagery, personification, irony, juxtaposition, sarcasm, similes and so on. These are used to make the message being communicated to...

Real Life Writings in American Literary Journalism: a Narratological Study Gurpreet Kaur, 2015-07-24 This referential collection of essays is an important guide to the emergence and development of literary journalism through the centuries. The book begins with the defining of genres literature and journalism which blur the lines between them. It also gives an insight into the theories of narratology. Some practitioners included in this book are great American writers like John Hersey, Truman Capote, Norman Mailer, and Don DeLillo. These literary journalists bring to life both major as well as trivial issues of the society. New journalists coalesce all the fictional techniques with the journalistic methods to present a unique and sophisticated style which requires extensive research and even more careful reporting than done in the typical news articles. The book closes with the concluding thoughts followed by a list of works cited.

Literary Journalism in British and American Prose Doug Underwood, 2019-05-10 The debate surrounding fake news versus real news is nothing new. From Jonathan Swift's work as an acerbic anonymous journal editor turned novelist to reporter Mark Twain's hoax stories to Mary Ann Evans' literary reviews written under her pseudonym George Eliot, famous journalists and literary figures have always mixed fact, imagination, and critical commentary to produce memorable works. Contrasting the rival yet complementary traditions of literary or new journalism in Britain and the U.S., this study explores the credibility of some of the great works of English literature.

Literary Journalism in Colonial Australia Willa McDonald, 2023-09-02 This book traces the beginnings of literary narrative journalism in Australia. It contributes to evolving international definitions of the form while providing a glimpse into Australia's early press history and development as a nation. The book comprises two parts. The first examines the forerunners of literary journalism before and during the establishment of a free press, including the letters, diaries, and journals of the early colonists as well as sketches published in the first magazines and newspapers. The book asks if these were reporting when there was no thriving press until well into the 19th century; many were written by women and convicts whose voices otherwise went unheard. The second part examines the first expressions of literary journalism in forms more recognisable today, covering topics as varied as homelessness in Melbourne, the Queensland trade in Pacific Islander labour, and Australia's involvement in overseas wars, particularly the Boer War. The resulting cultural history reveals important milestones in the development of Australia's press and literature while demonstrating the concerns unveiled in colonial literary journalism still resonate in Australia in the 21st century.

American Literature, Lynching, and the Spectator in the Crowd Debbie Lelekis,2015-10-08 American Literature Lynching and the Spectator in the Crowd Spectacular Violence examines spectatorship in American literature at the turn of the twentieth century focusing on texts by Theodore Dreiser Miriam Michelson Irvin S Cobb and Paul Laurence Dunbar The spectator functions as a lens through which we view the relationship between violence and social change as depicted in the politically charged crowds of fictional lynch mob scenes that expose the central tension of American democracy the struggle for balance between the rights of the individual and the demands of the community This has played out in American fiction through clashes between crowds and the primarily rural images that have so often been used to describe America While this pastoral vision of America has dominated the study of American literature this book argues for a reassessment of fiction that takes into consideration that the way the country defines itself collectively is as significant as the way its people define themselves individually This study distinguishes itself from others by bringing together journalism crowds lynching spectatorship and literature in new and innovative ways that uncover how American literature at the turn of the twentieth century confronted and pushed beyond passive observation and static visual performances which are traditionally associated with the terms spectator and spectacle The crowds in fictional lynch mob scenes clash with the idea of positive collective action because the crowd s vigilantism defies legitimate legal and democratic processes Lynch mobs in contrast to other crowds like strikes or political rallies do not reclaim the democratic process from the control of the powerful and wealthy but rather oppose those practices violently without regard to justice As a figure who is simultaneously within and outside the crowd the spectator often in the form of a reporter character is in a unique position to express the fractures occurring between the individual and the collective in American society Racial conflicts are a key aspect of the crowd scenes examined American writers contended with these issues by using the spectator to observe question and challenge readers to consider the impact on the structure of American society

The Story Of "Me" Marjorie Worthington,2018-11 Autofiction or works in which the eponymous author appears as a fictionalized character represents a significant trend in postwar American literature when it proliferated to become a kind of postmodern cliché The Story of Me charts the history and development of this genre analyzing its narratological effects and discussing its cultural implications By tracing autofiction's conceptual issues through case studies and an array of texts Marjorie Worthington sheds light on a number of issues for postwar American writing the maleness of the postmodern canon and anxieties created by the supposed waning of male privilege the relationship between celebrity and authorship the influence of theory the angst stemming from claims of the death of the author and the rise of memoir culture Worthington constructs and contextualizes a bridge between the French literary context from which the term originated and the rise of autofiction among various American literary movements from modernism to New Criticism to New Journalism The Story of Me demonstrates that the burgeoning of autofiction serves as a barometer of American literature from modernist authorial effacement to postmodern literary self consciousness

On Company Time Donal Harris, 2016-10-04

American novelists and poets who came of age in the early twentieth century were taught to avoid journalism like wet sox and gin before breakfast It dulled creativity rewarded sensationalist content and stole time from serious writing Yet Willa Cather W E B Du Bois Jessie Fauset James Agee T S Eliot and Ernest Hemingway all worked in the editorial offices of groundbreaking popular magazines and helped to invent the house styles that defined McClure's The Crisis Time Life Esquire and others On Company Time tells the story of American modernism from inside the offices and on the pages of the most successful and stylish magazines of the twentieth century Working across the borders of media history the sociology of literature print culture and literary studies Donal Harris draws out the profound institutional economic and aesthetic affiliations between modernism and American magazine culture Starting in the 1890s a growing number of writers found steady paychecks and regular publishing opportunities as editors and reporters at big magazines Often privileging innovative style over late breaking content these magazines prized novelists and poets for their innovation and attention to literary craft In recounting this history On Company Time challenges the narrative of decline that often accompanies modernism's incorporation into midcentury middlebrow culture Its integrated account of literary and journalistic form shows American modernism evolving within as opposed to against mass print culture Harris's work also provides an understanding of modernism that extends beyond narratives centered on little magazines and other institutions of modernism that served narrow audiences And for the writers the double life of working for these magazines shaped modernism's literary form and created new models of authorship
