A Laboratory Manual Ira Remsen,1902

Laboratory Experiments in General

Chemistry (Classic Reprint) Henry Briggs North,2017-10-14 Excerpt from Laboratory Experiments in General Chemistry

This manual is designed to cover a laboratory course in General Chemistry given in connection with a series of experimental lectures. It contains five hundred carefully chosen experiments on the more common elements and is so arranged that it can be used in connection with any good text book. The work includes a large number of experiments similar to those found in other manuals and in addition numerous more advanced experiments which to the author's knowledge have never before appeared in a laboratory manual in General Chemistry. It is not supposed that any one student will perform all of these experiments. The reason for the large number is rather that experiments may be chosen to meet the needs of the various classes of students. In the author's laboratory an assignment of experiments for each laboratory period is posted on the bulletin board. A number of the simpler experiments are selected for the beginners while the more advanced and consequently more difficult exercises are assigned to those who have had previous chemical training. In order to better facilitate this method of assignment all experiments have been numbered consecutively.
