Types of human factors errors

- Information that the respondents were to provide included the names of their offices or local elected officials, the job of those people, their phone, e-mail addresses, their fax numbers, etc. However, I did not want to know names of individuals who provide the information, but only their agencies and positions. I was able to obtain the names of the respondents, but I did not want to use them.

- ¹⁰⁰ The authors thank the anonymous reviewers for their helpful comments, especially for pointing out the need to clarify the meaning of the term "information" in the context of the study.
