ESL Readers and Writers in Higher Education Norman W. Evans, Neil J Anderson, William G. Eggington, 2015-06-12 ESL Readers and Writers in Higher Education describes the challenges ESL students in U S postsecondary institutions face when studying in a second language and offers suggestions for how teachers advisors tutors and institutions might provide support that meets the reading and writing needs of this very important student population Because the ESL profession as a whole including what professionals are doing in the classroom sits under the umbrella of an institutional response to a language related challenge some solutions aimed at helping students achieve optimal proficiency lie outside of the classroom As such this book is based on the assertion that language development support is not the sole responsibility of language teachers Everyone on campuses that hosts ESL students bears some responsibility for these students language development Chapters are therefore intentionally adapted to appeal to a wide variety of readers from classroom teachers and teachers in training to admissions officers academic advisors and international student advisors The ^AOxford Handbook of Language Contact Anthony P. Grant,2020-01-10 The Oxford Handbook of Language Contact examines the ways in which speakers of one language can exert influence on another language and the ways in which we can assess this influence It draws on data from dozens of languages from across the globe and examines the contact histories of twenty such situations including American Sign Language in detail It is the most up to date book on this topic in the science of language Latino Immigrant Youth and Interrupted Schooling Marguerite Lukes,2015-02-17 This book offers an innovative look at the pre and post migration educational experiences of immigrant young adults with a particular focus on members of the Latino community Combining quantitative data with original interviews this book provides an engaging and nuanced look at a population that is both ubiquitous and overlooked challenging existing assumptions about those categorized as dropouts and closely examining the historical contexts for educational interruption in the chosen subgroup The combination of accessible prose and compelling new statistical data appeals to a wide audience particularly academic professionals education practitioners and policy makers Life in a New Language Ingrid Piller,Donna Butorac,Emily Farrell,Loy Lising,Shiva Motaghi-Tabari,Vera Williams Tetteh,2024 International migration and the social diversity it creates constitute one of the key global challenges of the early 21st century Language and communication barriers can compromise equitable access in diverse societies and where socioeconomic disadvantage becomes entrenched it poses risks to security productivity and quality of life Clearly this is an important issue and migrants and their language choices are heavily politicized though political and media debates often rely on anecdotal conjecture or are ill informed Life in a New Language examines the language learning and settlement experiences of 130 migrants to Australia from 34 different countries in Africa Asia Europe and Latin America over a period of 20 years Reusing data shared from six separate sociolinguistic ethnographies the book illuminates participants lived experience of learning and communicating in a new language finding work and doing family Additionally participants experiences with racism and identity making in a new context are explored The research uncovers significant hardship but also migrants courage and resilience The book has implications for language service provision migration policy open science and social justice movements Transnational Research in English Language Teaching Rashi Jain,Bedrettin Yazan,Suresh Canagarajah,2022-07-15 This edited volume contributes to the creation of a comprehensive and a more inclusive understanding of an increasingly complex global ELT landscape across countries as well as across teaching and learning settings The volume brings together inquiries from language teachers educators and researchers from different backgrounds in the Global South and the Global North who use their experiences of shuttling across borders to reflect on the shaping of their pedagogical research and professional practices across higher education settings The chapters weave the personal professional and theoretical in a seamless manner examining transnational identities and pedagogical practices formed and informed by both communities home and host and include narratives that are not unidirectional The contributing authors also use a variety of qualitative research methods along with reflexive writing and exploration of the authors own positionalities to shed light on transnational identities and critique dominant pedagogical assumptions

Cognitive Individual Differences in Second Language Processing and Acquisition Gisela Granena, Daniel O. Jackson, Yucel Yilmaz, 2016-12-23

Cognitive Individual Differences in Second Language Processing and Acquisition contains 14 chapters that focus on the role of cognitive IDs in L2 learning and processing The book brings together theoretical and methodological approaches to the study of cognitive IDs as well as empirical studies that investigate the mediating role of cognitive IDs in various linguistic domains Chapters include contributions from researchers working within second language acquisition SLA psycholinguistics and cognitive psychology sharing a common interest in the application of cognitive IDs to their respective areas of study The interdisciplinary understanding of cognitive IDs presented in this book makes the book of interest to a wide readership of graduate students faculty members and academic researchers in the fields of SLA psycholinguistics cognitive psychology and education

Getting at GET in World Englishes Elisabeth Bruckmaier, 2017-02-20 Despite its exceptional frequency and versatility GET has never been a focus of research in its entire variability which goes from lexical to grammatical uses nor in large amounts of data from different varieties of English The present corpus based study deals with over 11 600 tokens of GET in written and spoken language from three varieties of English and thus provides new insights for variationist linguistics Firstly it offers a comprehensive semasiological syntactic analysis of GET i e an analysis of all its meanings and all the constructions into which it enters suggesting ten categories as being necessary for its complete description Secondly it contributes to the understanding of factors that are at work in variation in World Englishes and lead to quantitative differences between regional standard varieties Thus the present study demonstrates that the use of GET in the New Englishes analysed is less affected by substrate effects than by the effects of Second Language Acquisition and the varying influence of British and American English norms Moreover it can be shown that the New Englishes display more grammatical uses of GET than does British English
