For topics where you scored low, focus your attention on these topics and study them well. For all of the material learned in class throughout the month, review it in your notes.

For topics you want to self-study, use your resources and diagnostic results. If you score 80% or above on a topic in class, you can self-study. If you score below 80%, you can use the self-study guide to help you learn more about the topic.
