Write Like a Sumerian!

Cuneiform is noted as the oldest form of writing, systems were developed in Mesopotamia as a method of communication. Cuneiform included a combination of pictographs, symbols representing entire words and phonograms (symbols representing a syllable or sound). Early Sumerian writing began as a pictographic system with simple pictures and symbols, which represented a whole object or idea. Sumerians developed pictures of objects and animals (including the well-known symbols, sheep, fish, and birds) to represent words such as eating and drinking were represented with abstract symbols. This was a revolutionary development because it allowed a more sophisticated writing system to be developed. The evolution of the pictorial system of writing provided a means to convey more abstract ideas. Symbols representing sounds, instead of whole ideas, became a more sophisticated writing system. Symbols for water could be used to represent the word "water" because the two words sounded alike. This is the same concept as the alphabet used today. The Cuneiform system of writing developed over a period of 100 years and eventually grew into a more sophisticated system. By 3000 B.C., the Sumerians had developed a complete system of writing.

By 3000 B.C., the Sumerians had developed a complete system of writing. Cuneiform was used when carved into clay tablets with fluted reeds. Some tablets were used to keep records or they were used as a means of communication. Many of the clay tablets found in Mesopotamia were used as a means of communication. Some were used as a means of communication. Some were used as a means of communication.
